A CHEAPER DOLLAR

U.S. MONETARY POLICY

ENTERING GOLD MARKET

Washington, Oct. 23.
The belief is growing that President Roosevelt's announcement on monetary policy means that an attempt is to be made to establish what is termed a "Commodity Dollar."

It is announced by trustworthy sources that the Government may be expected to begin the purchase of newly-mined gold through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (as President Roosevelt fore-shadowed yesterday) almost immediately.

There is also reason to believe that the price to be fixed will probably be above the London and Paris market prices.

CHEAPER DOLLAR.

Officials believe that the effect of fixing the price at a higher rate will be calculated to free the American dollar from European influence and will result

(1) In the cheapening of the dollar as compared with sterling or francs;

(2) An increase in the world price of gold because twenty-five or thirty thousand ounces which have hitherto been shipped out would remain in the United States.—Reuter.

DEATH OF LADY RESIDENT

MRS. LOCKHART-SMITH PASSES AWAY

We have to record with regret the death, which occurred at the French Hospital this morning, of Mrs. Alice Janet Lockhart-Smith, the wife of Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, who only a few days ago was appointed to act as Official Receiver.

Mrs. Lockhart-Smith had been ill for some time, but news of her death will come as a shock to a wide circle of friends. She had been in the Colony for only a little more than a year, and was married about two years ago.

There is an infant daughter of the marriage.

The funeral takes place this evening at the Protestant Cemetery at five o'clock.

30-VOTE DEFEAT IN CHAMBER

RESIGNATION EXPECTED

Paris, Oct. 24.
After a debate lasting long into the night, M. Daladier was defeated in the Chamber on a Budget division.

M. Daladier was defeated by a margin of about thirty votes. The result was in line with expectations. The hopes of a compromise on the civil servants' salary cut gradually dimmed, although the final support for the Premier was greater than was at first anticipated.

Owing to the seriousness of the political situation, President Lebrun returned to Paris yesterday.

The Chamber was crowded when the Budget debate, on which the future of the frame may depend, was resumed this morning.

The Communists attacked, moving amendments which M. Lamoureux, defending the budget, declared killed the lottery scheme by which the Government hopes to swell its income.

After passing the first article, M. Daladier requested the Chamber immediately to debate the most important proposals, such as provisions designed to prevent fraud and the taxation of civil servants.—Reuter.

In view of the weekly Cabinet meeting which will be held on Wednesday as usual and at which the business of the forthcoming Parliamentary session will be discussed, the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, will be unable to attend the meetings of the Bureau and the General Commission of Disarmament Conference at Geneva on Wednesday and Thursday. The Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Captain Anthony Eden will go in his stead.—British Wireless.

London, Oct. 23.
The Prime Minister to-day formally opened the new extension of the Post Office Research Station at Dollis Hill.

The station was established before the war and the apparatus is now being transferred to large new premises, better suited to laboratory work.

Among the many other inventions and discoveries which have been applied to the improvement of communications, the Dollis Hill experts are largely responsible for the recent rapid and remarkable developments of long distance telephony.

The work already done has given the laboratory world-wide recognition and among those benefitting from its research work are the engineering students sent to London by the telephone and telegraph administrations of many foreign Governments.—British Wireless.

STILL HOPING FOR AGREEMENT ON DISARMAMENT

NO BLUSH OR APOLOGY

LONDON, OCT. 23.
NO-ONE IS ASKING GERMANY TO FORFEIT EITHER HER HONOUR OR HER SELF-RESPECT, DECLARED MR. RAMSAY MACDONALD, SPEAKING AT CRAWLEY, SUSSEX, TO-NIGHT, WHEN MAKING AN APPEAL FOR UNDERSTANDING.

He emphasised that disarmament efforts must continue. The British Government, he said, is not going to give up attempts to secure an agreed scheme for the reduction and limitation of armaments.

The Prime Minister, touching lightly on the suggestion by Baron von Neurath that there had been misrepresentation of Germany's position, declared that Britain could look Germany "in the face without any blush or apology."

NEIGHBOURLINESS.

The nations of the world, he went on, must develop the spirit of neighbourliness.

There could be no settlement in Europe until every nation can sit around the same table on terms of equality.

Germany, in contribution to that end, must make it possible for other nations to live alongside her without fear roused in their hearts and without distrust reflected in their arms.

NO RUNNING AWAY.

Britain, he added, will adopt the measures she considers best fitted to get results and "certainly one of these methods is not to run away ourselves."

The Premier denied that Germany's action in leaving the rest of the world to face its difficulties alone was the way to bring peace and to give confidence to Europe. He concluded by expressing the hope that Germany would seize the first opportunity to show that she is pursuing peace and is anxious to return to cooperation with other nations that will not ask her to forfeit either her honour or her self-respect.—Reuter.

SOVIET CENSUS IN GREAT FAR-NORTH IN 1934-35

Khabarovsk.
With the ultimate object of transforming the enormous unexplored territory of Russia's "Great Far-North" into a modern socialist community, a census will be taken in 1934-35.

It will be one of the most difficult censuses ever made. The population of the Far-North is thought to be about 1,300,000. But they belong to about 25 different nationalities, each having its own language, culture, life habits and social structure.

In spite of extensive work by Soviet explorers, the Far-North is far from being sufficiently explored and studied. In many cases the natural resources, the inhabitants' needs and their occupations still remain unknown.

In some parts, however, civilization has made its mark. Nomad tribes are beginning to settle down; schools and hospitals are a new feature in these distant areas.

Guns of the latest make, factory-made fishing tackle, motor boats and modern farming implements are becoming regular features of local life.

The Soviet's ambition is to modernise the whole of this gigantic tract of lands, thus the census will not only be demographic but also economic.—Reuter.

BARTER IN COTTON

SIMLA PARLEY PROPOSALS

PIECE-GOODS FOR RAW COTTON

New Delhi, Oct. 23.
For the first time since the beginning of the cotton negotiations between Japan and India, a spirit of optimism has been aroused.

The more hopeful atmosphere is the consequence of long talks which resulted in the Japanese approving of the principle of a barter scheme.

The details have not yet been worked out, but the Indian Government, it is understood, has offered to permit a specified amount of Japanese piece-goods imports against the Japanese purchase of a specified quantity of Indian raw cotton.

COUNTER-PROPOSALS.

India, it is reported, proposes three hundred million yards of cloth against thirteen hundred thousand bales of cotton.

On her part, Japan suggests that India should take last year's figure of Japanese piece-goods imports into India, namely, 578,000,000 yards.

As regards other industries, India has offered to place Japan on an equal footing with other countries by the adoption of a specific duty which however would be increased in the case of a further depreciation of the yen.—Reuter.

CORRESPONDENCE

(To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.)

Sir,—A Canton English daily newspaper yesterday carried a description of a test made to a Fire engine of Chinese construction, mounted on a "Morris" chassis. The stream of water from the hose reached a height of thirty feet, which was considered satisfactory, and equal, if not superior, to any Fire engine now in use here. (The Canton Fire Brigade possesses several Fire engines of foreign manufacture.) Personally, my garden syringe could better this achievement! but perhaps some of your readers could tell us exactly how high a modern Fire engine can "shoot water!"

Do you hold your pen at a certain angle? Do you prefer a stub to a fine point? It doesn't matter! Whatever your style of handwriting, however bold and black or light and dainty it is, you'll find a Parker point nicely adapted to your hand.

Getting the kind of point you like is only one of the many advantages of a Parker Duofold. How easily and smoothly this pen writes! The secret is in a tiny drop of ink that always touches the paper a split second before the point itself, assuring a free, even, unbroken stroke, without pressure. Words come out like magic!

People everywhere recognize the Parker's many advantages—its non-breakable and leak-proof barrel, its concealed button filler, its beauty of proportion. A variety of handsome colors to choose from. . . . Make certain the pen you buy is a genuine Parker. At good stores everywhere.

Parker QUINK—Because many fountain pen troubles are due to faulty inks, Parker perfected Quink, a quick-drying, non-clogging ink that flows evenly and smoothly. Permanent or washable.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alice Hart

If you're planning to try one of the new autumn coiffures, you'll probably need a permanent wave.

These new styles of hair dress are softly waved affairs and many of them have rows and rows of little curls at the back of the neck. Naturally, rows of curls are easier to retain if you have a permanent.

Shop around a bit before you decide on the place to get your wave. There is no economy in getting a bargain-permanent. The best is none too good for your hair. Remember that the operator who does the winding is more important than the kind of wave. If the winding is done properly and your hair tested before anything is done, you won't have split ends and falling hair.

The test curl is all important. Only by making a test of one lock of hair before anything else is done, does the operator know what strength lotion to use, and how much heat to apply.

If you dislike sitting under a heavy, hot machine, by all means investigate the new machine-less permanents before you make your appointment. They take much less time, aren't painful at all and there is no danger of getting burned, since no heat is applied. The action takes place in the pads which are treated with various chemicals. The pads get hot the minute they are put around the hair and then start to cool in less than five minutes.

In spite of all their seemingly simple good points, have no fear that they won't keep your hair waved as long as the other kinds. They, too, are guaranteed for six months.

Looks that click with men hold a key to success in love.

CHIC ON THREE COUNTS

White Plaid Organdie Adds Smart Touch

Gloria Stuart.

Hollywood.—It is the little things that make Hollywood costumes so interesting.

For instance, with a simple navy blue crepe dress, Gloria Stuart wears a pair of blue and white plaid organdie gauntlets, a wide bow tie of same organdie stuck through slits in the neck of her dress and a bit of the organdie making a decorative cuff around a little blue stray fez.

Dorothy Lee wore a green lace evening gown with pleats at the sides running clear up the skirt to the shoulders and green satin slippers with flesh-coloured ties to match her long suede gloves.

Betty Furness wore a white wrap-around crepe dress that fastened at the sides with bright red buttons and then had a fringed sash of red, white and blue. Her hat, too was red, white and blue.

Dolores Del Rio wore a black and white suit, bathing suit in her own pool. The suit comprised of a kerchief top and white shorts laced up the sides with black and white black graduated stripes around the bottom.

Jean Parker wore a black satin dress with white ruching high about neck, in good, old pre-war manner, and three-quarters sleeves. Also a tiny black satin hat, looking very Parisienne.

YOUR CHILDREN.

By Olive Roberts Barton

"How are the children?" inquired Mrs. Holmes. Mrs. Clark, her caller, replied that they were very well.

"How fortunate," sighed Mrs. Holmes. "Beth has had a series of summer colds. I really don't believe she is fit to go back to school."

The conversation turned on school for a few minutes, but it was more about Beth's school prospects than about Mrs. Clark's children's school prospects.

The visitor, sensing this, listened as patiently as possible to all the misfortunes of Beth during the last two years.

Clothes were the next thing. Mrs. Clark said she wanted to take in a sale of rain coats on the way home.

Centre of Conversation
Mrs. Holmes related in detail all about Beth's rain coat. Then she went over Beth's wardrobe, piece by piece—where she had seen the plaid dress and how she had copied it for half price; how it happened that her aunt had knitted her a green sweater instead of a blue; and how the dimity had faded.

Mrs. Clark was there an hour. In that time her hostess turned every trick of conversation toward Beth. Beth sat and listened. When she had the opportunity, she would say, "Mama, tell Mrs. Clark about the time I fell into the lake" or "Tell about the time the lady at the library said I was smart."

When Mrs. Clark left she thought several things; but it doesn't here just matter what she thought.

We are interested in Beth. She had gone down the street to her aunt's. Her aunt had called, too.

Nobody was paying much attention to Beth. She sat a while then said suddenly, "Dear me! Dear me! Dear me!"

Everybody stopped and looked at her. "What's wrong?" asked her aunt. "Oh—I guess—never mind," said Beth and sat down again.

Auntie Steps In

The talk went on. This would not do. "I'm not very well," she said suddenly. "I guess I can't go to school."

Everybody stared for a minute and then went on talking about a tennis tournament.

"You won't," snapped auntie.

"You're going home."

Beth went off to tell her mother how she had been insulted. Over the phone that evening the two sisters had it out.

"People get tired of hearing about Beth," said auntie. "And they get tired hearing her, too. You've made her think she is the centre of the universe. It isn't her fault. Try to be interested in other people's children and try to get her interested in some one else besides herself. If you don't watch out she's going to be called 'The Pest.' And will you like that?"

of the gap. I stopped my game of tennis to go and have a look at him. When I got to the spot, he'd gone. "Goodness!" gasped Beryl. "Yes—it was pretty queer," went on Leonard, "and perhaps you can understand now why I wasn't too keen to tell you when you were in the middle of the ocean. I'm only telling you now because I believe you're the kind of person who can help—and there are so many people who only hinder."

"Thanks," she said. "Thanks—awfully. But you're going to tell the others, too, aren't you?" He looked at her reflectively before replying.

"I haven't quite decided, Miss Haines," he said, slowly. "They'll have to learn soon, of course—but, just for the moment . . ."

"Well, I'll keep mum till you tell me not to," she interposed. "But although I'm sure you're wiser than I am—I think you'll be making a mistake if you keep mum too long."

"I agree," he answered. "It will only be for a few hours, at most."

She picked up her mauve bathing-wrap, and threw it around her. "Anyhow," she observed, as they began to ascend the private path to the hotel, "you've told me everything, and I'm sure I feel vastly flattered."

But Leonard Sefton had not told her everything. He had not told her, for instance, that when they had been on the wreck he had heard something—breathing behind

VOTES TO GO BEFORE THE FINANCE COMMITTEE

A total of $3,340 is comprised in votes to go before the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council on Thursday next, as follows:

Sanitary Department:—31, Animal Depots and Slaughterhouses. Incidental Expenses $400.
 Provision made in Estimates (page 68 sub-head 31) $1,500.
 Owing to increased consumption of lead seals which are used for sealing cases of lard for export, and also to increased use of ammunition for slaughter of a larger number of animals than was foreseen, the additional ammunition having to be purchased in the local market at greatly increased cost, expenditure on this sub-head up to the present has amounted to $1,300.04 out of a total vote of $1,500. A supplementary vote of $400 is requested which it is hoped will prove sufficient to cover expenditure on these services for the remainder of this year.

Public Works Extraordinary:—

New Territories, Miscellaneous. Government Dispensary, Tai Po—$2,750.

It is proposed to move the Government Dispensary at Tai Po to more commodious premises on the expiry of the lease of the premises at present occupied. To fit them for the purpose intended, the new premises will require certain alterations (including two celling fans), estimated to cost—$2,750—and a vote for this amount is requested.

Medical Department:—Special Expenditure. 54, Repair and Calibration of Instruments, Analytical Laboratory—$100.

Provision made in Estimate (page 67 sub-head 54) $500.

Owing to the impossibility of dismantling the chemical apparatus and instruments locally the estimate of the cost of repairing them in England could only be tentative and in the event the amount provided has proved insufficient.

A supplementary vote for $100 is now requested.

UNWORKABLE POLICY?

ORTHODOX ECONOMISTS AND BANKERS CRITICAL

New York, Oct. 23. In the opinion of orthodox economists and bankers, President Roosevelt's monetary policy, "as broadened, may be summed up as utopian and unworkable."

The New York Times states that leading financiers consider the President's plan as an unprecedented thing and one completely at variance with the established monetary precepts.

Other economic experts suggest that President Roosevelt is aiming at an elastic dollar, manipulated by the Government by purchases and sales of gold at predetermined prices, to counteract fluctuations in the general price level. In other words, they believe he is planning a "commodity dollar" with a virtually stable purchasing power.

Bankers are most sceptical as to the practicability of controlling the general price level. They favour control of the foreign exchange value of the dollar but are surprised by the selection of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as agents instead of the Treasury or Federal Reserve Bank system.

According to the Washington correspondent of the New York Times, the price of gold must be fixed at about $40 an ounce if President Roosevelt aims at achieving the 1926 price levels.

Some quarters predict that the immediate effect will be an increased gold price abroad and a drop in the dollar in relation to other currencies.—Reuter.

LONDON'S REACTION.

Bankers Interested But Non-Committal.

London, Oct. 23. London bankers are following President Roosevelt's monetary plan with interest but are adopting a wait and see attitude before commenting. They observe, however, that the success of the experiment stands a fifty-fifty chance and recall Mr. Montagu Norman's recent remark that a new situation is developing in the United States every day, hence no wise man could safely predict the future.—Reuter.

ROOSEVELT PRAISED.

Action May Mean Stabilisation Of Silver.

New York, Oct. 23. The Secretary of the Montana Silver Association said to-day that President Roosevelt's gold policy should indirectly aid silver and might ultimately stabilise both metals.

Nevada mining men are disappointed that the President

MILITARY HISTORIAN DIES IN CANNES

Cannes, Oct. 23. The death of Sir John William Fortescue, hero to-day of the British of one of her foremost military historians. The noted writer died following an operation.—Reuter.

Sir John was born in the year 1859 and was the fifth son of the third Earl of Fortescue. He was educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge, and upon completion of his education was appointed private secretary to the Governor of the Windward Islands, later holding a similar post in New Zealand. Concluding his services there he returned to England where he became an officer of the Yeomanry and took up the study of the exploits of the British Army.

In 1895 he published a "History of the Seventh Lancers" and later a work on "Dundonald" as well as the "Story of the Red Deer," and "The Drummer's Coat." During this time he had been gathering material for the work which was to make him famous, a detailed history of the British Army comprising some thirteen volumes. This task took him nearly thirty years to complete and the financial return was so wretched that had it not been for the patronage of King Edward it is doubtful if it ever would have been completed.

In 1905 King Edward appointed him librarian at Windsor Castle and Deputy Keeper of the Royal Archives and later King George, upon his ascension to the throne retained him in these two offices. He was also given lectureships in Oxford, Cambridge and London Universities. When in March, 1930 the last volume, bringing the history up to 1870, was completed, no other army in the world had anything approaching so full and concise a record of its deeds.

John Fortescue was knighted (K.C.V.O.) in 1926 and in 1931 created a highly furor by his criticism of the Earl of Xpox Book, "1914," stating that he had never encountered such a lamentable work and that the most charitable view of it was that it was written by a monomaniac. Sir John was a great admirer of Smith-Dorrien.

ignored silver, but since gold and silver are usually mined together, the rising gold price, they believe will aid silver.

Senator Thomas, praising President Roosevelt's statement, added that silver's turn would come and "by our own action."

Mr. Montferry, ex-President of the American Silver Producers' Association foresees an improvement in silver and even envisages it as the primary money.—Reuter.

BANDIT STAND

Peking, Oct. 23.

Advancing from three directions, the Government forces in the Luan-tung area are closing in on Funging, where a force of about a thousand bandits under a minor chief is preparing to make a desperate stand. Advance guards of the special police have already reached the lower slopes of a mountain east of Funging. The lower slopes have been cleared, but 100 outlaws are believed to remain entrenched on the summit and are ready to sell their lives dearly.

The Chinese press reports that the authorities are employing conciliatory methods but are showing no weakness when their offers are refused.

Under the leadership of a woman, a force of 1,000 bandits is reported to have assembled at Tasyu, 10 miles north of Hualjou, where General Fang Chen-wu recently made his headquarters. The bandits are stated to be massing for the purpose of attempting an advance south.

A detachment of special police has been sent to nip the trouble in the bud, while strict precautions are being taken in Hualjou.

Where is Fang?

The mystery of General Fang Chen-wu remains unsolved. Some reports now hint that the rebel leader was murdered by unknown assassins.

However, soldiers of his former command who arrived here yesterday declare General Fang is still alive. They maintain he did not arrive in Tientsin but cut off his beard in order to avoid detection, and is now on his way to Canton, for the purpose of resuming his political activities.

Some circles here, however, believe that General Fang is now definitely in Tientsin, where they assert he arrived secretly in disguise, after hiding for several days in a village near Tungchow. This version claims that the defeated general travelled from Tungchow to Tientsin on a slow train and thus escaped detection.

General Fang Chen-wu's ally, General Chi Hung-chang, who is anxious to visit Cuba, is reported to have already left Tientsin for an unknown destination.—Reuter.

NO INFLATION

President Roosevelt, under siege for weeks by advocates of inflation, has at last definitely declared for a sound money policy. There are the orthodox economists who would refuse to acknowledge a managed currency system as sound, but generally speaking they are to-day in the great minority; and Wall Street will welcome the announcement as at least putting off indefinitely the prospect of more alarming developments in the currency field. Mr. Roosevelt does not contemplate any interference with monetary matters at present, but when commodity prices are restored to the 1925 level, he proposes devaluation and stabilization of the dollar. In the meantime, he hopes to secure what advantages lies in inflation from a process of credit inflation, in which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is to continue to play the leading part. Loans are to be made to the farmers in attempt to mollify them and the re-financing of farm mortgages is to be speeded up, all of the measures taking the form of credit expansion moves. That the farmers have real cause for complaint is beyond question. Farm prices have risen, but retail prices have jumped in much greater proportion and they are left relatively worse off than they were before. It is not easy to satisfy farmers at any time; when they have a real grievance, they cannot be ignored. When President Roosevelt says: "If we cannot do it one way, we shall do it in another, he means that the Administration will have to find a way. In some quarters emphasis is laid on getting the $3,300,000,000 Public works programme under way. More important than the addition of millions in greenbacks to an existing stock of idle currency is the need that this programme should really get up steam. It is the step of major consequence to both storekeepers and farmers. Without denying the evident benefits of being unhitched from gold, it is possible to over emphasize the value of currency inflation. When the Southern cotton planters demanded that inflation be employed until cotton was raised to the unreasonable price of 20 cents a pound, they departed from its only justification, namely, reducing the dollar to a normal buying power. And when they urge the Government to go into the discredited business of buying up crops to be held off the market, they forget that the fundamental support for the price of cotton is in the number of cotton garments people buy. The Great Experiment has still to prove itself in supplying a large volume of new purchasing power.

NOTES OF THE DAY

"DOLES" FOR AMERICA?

The announcement that President Roosevelt is taking advantage of the presence in the United States of Sir William Beveridge to employ him as adviser on unemployment insurance suggests that Washington has been more deeply impressed by the British system than has hitherto been officially admitted. Sir William was, for many years, closely connected with the development of measures for dealing with unemployment problems in England. He was a member of the Central Body on Unemployment before the war, was the first Director of the Labour Exchanges, which perform an important function in connexion with unemployment insurance, and was Secretary in charge of the Employment Department of the Board of Trade. He is an acknowledged authority on economic and labour problems.

CHANCES AHEAD

One of the most perplexing things about living in 1933 is that the world's leading thinkers seem quite unable to make up their minds whether we are approaching a sunset or a dawn. If you study all the books, magazine articles and interviews in which thoughtful men try to appraise the present situation you will find two schools of thought represented. According to one school, the end of all things is at hand, and a great darkness is about to settle down over the waters. Capitalism is done for, western civilization is about to collapse and the world is about to enter a new dark age.

BIRTH-PANGS

According to the other school, our woes are just the birth pangs of a new order of life. We are going through a great change, and paying for it in misery and confusion, but when the change is finished things will be almost infinitely better than they were before. There will be more freedom and less poverty, more peace and less war, more happiness and less desperate uncertainty. Each group of prognosticators can assemble a multitude of facts and a string of clever arguments to prove its case. You can get damnation with your morning coffee and salvation with your afternoon cigarette if you like, and each forecast will seem to be absolutely fool-proof.

A TURNING POINT

This, however, conflicting it may be, seems to indicate one thing indisputably; that we have reached one of history's great turning points, and that no matter what the future brings it will be something vastly different from past experiences. For better or for worse, we have come upon a time of change, and those who do not like change seem to be very much out of luck. Yet it is also quite possible that the seers are mostly wrong. The disasters they foresee may not be quite as bad as they expect; the improvements may leave us only a little bit better off than we were. The important thing is that we accept the fact that some sort of change is coming and prepare our minds for it.

BREAKING BARRIERS

When the heaving shoulders of the antarctic seas lift the bows of the Pacific Fir and the Bear of Oakland, and Little America waddles from the rim of the great ice barrier that rings the South Polar regions, the Byrd Antarctic Expedition will be staging its drama of conquest before crowded galleries—an achievement hitherto unknown.

When the long antarctic night shuts down, with the temperature sinking to 70 to 90 degrees below zero and winds of unbelievable velocity whipping blizzard banners over the stark wastes, the members of the expedition will speak in normal tones and be heard in the living rooms of Main Street. For weekly broadcasts are to be made from Little America throughout the stay of the world.

Only yesterday, when an Amundsen, Scott or Peary left his base and plunged forward in a dash toward either pole, the silence swallowed him. Friend and interested follower waited long months for the word that would proclaim the expedition safe, its goal achieved or valiant attempt recorded. To-day this suspense is removed. The voice of the adventurer reaches to the farthest corner of the earth.

SHOCKS FOR GOOD-LOOKING MEN

By PETER FORREST

THE youngest woman-for-hor- age I know smiled at me over the rim of her cocktail glass. "The first time I married," said she, "I was in love with a man's looks; the second time, I fell in love with a man's character. The first marriage lasted two years; the second has lasted sixteen, and I'm still telling myself I am a lucky woman."

She is. To know that one has only to look at her—trim, lithe, lively, at 43 looking no more than 30. Her husband is one of the world's nicest men. Rodin would have liked to sculpt him. He has a face like that.

Curious, how many pretty women prefer men against whom they stand out like orchids against dark, rough oaks. Strange, the lure of the rough-hewn visage, the asymmetrical countenance. Sad (for them) the slump in the matinee-idol type of man.

In the present week I have had to entertain girls of debutante age on a visit to town from the country. Each time I suggested shows adorned by highly decorative leading men, and each time I was turned down.

"Let's see Cedric Hardwicke," said one. "Oh, I've got a crush on Charles Laughton," confessed another.

TALKIE FACTORIES PERPLEXED.

I am told that this sort of thing is causing some perplexity and trouble in the world of the talkie factories.

Women prefer Lionel Barrymore—sturdy, unhandsome, but so interesting—to his brother John, whose profile is famous; and Wallace Beery has cut out John Gilbert, although the one looks like Caliban and the other like the Fairy Prince.

Clark Gable? It is a nice point whether he is handsome. He had to play brutal crook roles in his early phase because the film manufacturers thought he looked that way.

It was only after about a million women had made it clear that they found this Dempsey-looking man more attractive than the wayward-haired and handsome hero, in a film in which both appeared, that his employers decided they had made a mistake, and had better give the great feminine public what it wanted.

One may surmise a new fashion in romantic men. But a man's mere looks seldom have meant as much to a woman as a woman's have to a man.

Consider Casanova, a gentleman who had more successes with women than almost any man since Julius Caesar, whose love exploits were a standing joke among his soldiers. Casanova was an ugly man. Julius, who had the additional disadvantage of being bald, was no beauty, either.

The early photographs of Gabriele D'Annunzio, "Prince of the Snowy Mountain," show an unlovely young man, whose nose is too long and whose mouth is too loose. From that stage he developed into the Gabriele of to-day, who bears a singular facious resemblance to a tortoise.

Yet this quite unattractive-looking man, poor and obscure (but with what vital force!), began his devastating career as a lover by inspiring a duchess's daughter with a passion so profound that she ran away with him.

Thereafter, his list of conquests is dazzling. A princess... Eleanor Duse... Probably he cannot recall all the women who have loved him.

It is not that they idealised him through his books and were repulsed when they saw him (as sometimes happens with authors, and women). On the contrary.

A GRAVE ERROR.

D'Annunzio did not suffer from an inferiority complex at any time. Neither did Landru, a really frightful-looking male, yet apparently irresistible to some women.

But in my experience the average non-good-looking male is inclined to bow himself from the presence of a pretty girl, or a beautiful woman, as soon as a handsome rival appears.

A grave error. Looks do count with some women. One recalls that Josephine risked her whole future with Napoleon (whose visage was too severe ever to be considered attractive by women, and who quickly lost his slim figure) for a stupid but handsome Guardes as frivolous as herself.

But most beauties, with minds of their own consider that looks are far down in the list of the qualities which attract them in a man. Captain Goering's wife was a stunning beauty. Stressmann had a gargoyle face. He won a woman above him in the social scale, lovely, witty, charming—and devoted to him.

No one would have conceded good looks to the red-headed D. H. Lawrence. Yet a baron's daughter left her upper-middle-class husband, three children, and a happy home for love of him, and became Mrs. Lawrence and shared his peculiarly uncomfortable but no doubt exciting life.

The man Marlene Dietrich is married to has quite a "homely" face. So has Mr. Rosson. Mrs. Rosson, otherwise Jean Harlow, is a girl so ravishingly beautiful, so celebrated, feted, sought after, and high-salaried that the average man might well ask himself upon meeting her whether she would condescend to realise that he existed.

Mrs. Rosson pays public tribute to her husband's prowess at golf and with a camera. She is, factually silent upon the subject of his profile.

The world's greatest beauty is Greta Garbo. She has one of those marvellous faces which date an age. When our civilisation perishes her legend will survive—like Cleopatra's, like Helen's. Only one man is known ever to have meant anything to her. He was Stiller, her producer. Stiller was a heavy-faced man cast in a rugged mould, whose best friend would not have granted him ten marks out of a possible hundred in a male beauty contest.

If Garbo ever falls in love, I shall be surprised if the man turns out to be possessed of a tithe of the good looks of, say, Sir Percy Laurie, or Mr. Herbert Marshall, or Lord D'Abernon when young.

Recalling, then, that a Caesar can captivate a Cleopatra, a D'Annunzio fascinate a Duse, and a Rosson run off with a Harlow, and that a Duse, proffered Owen Nares, may prefer a Leslie Owen, there seems to be more hope for the plain man than he is accustomed to believe when he

The Very Idea!

HINTS ON GARDENING

By Eddie "Pansy" Kelly

EVERYBODY loves a garden. We have even heard singers thanking God for one over the radio.

With autumn in the offing, it's time all of us who live on ground floors went in for a spot of flower potting.

First of all, what you want is a good friable loam. Fried loam is the best for most plants, earth or dirt being the next choice.

This should be thoroughly dug, harrowed, and fallowed—do you follow us?—and then the planting may commence. Dandelions should be planted now, especially when planted with Flame of the Forest.

Antirrhinum—antihirn—anthir—those things you see growing on the Castle Peak road, are very easy to grow and need very little attention. Personally we are keen on them, but our wife doesn't like them because they don't give us enough to do on Saturday afternoons.

Our favourite flower is the self-raising variety, which is usually done up in 2 lb. packets. Scenes are delicious when made with these.

This is the time of the year when vines should be planted. Vines are decorative, especially the flowering ones. Two of the best varieties are the Ellsworth Vines and the Port Vines. The latter variety, however, does not last long.

Carnations will grow well if they are given plenty of bone dust. The bones should be kept in a dusty place and the dust removed once a fortnight and stored.

For the kitchen garden, gherkins and pickled onions are excellent. They should be planted in rows, taking care to keep the bottles upright and tightly corked.

Introduce the sporting element to your garden for variety and interest. Select a fairly healthy-looking plant after they have started to grow, and lay the odds on it. With our plants the odds are fairly constant. Even money a pumpkin, two to one a water-melon, 15 to 1 a cucumber, and so on. Of course, it all depends on the seed.

Apart from the sporting side of gardening, consider the exercise you get. And the result!

You can sit back all covered with blisters and dirty finger nails and gaze at a riot of flowers. In Ireland, where our mother comes from, they have the riot first and the flowers after, but the keen gardener can have both at once.

One thing you've got to watch in Hongkong is the insects. We were only reading in the Telegraph a few weeks ago about a lot of flowers that were infested with weevils. They had to throw them all away.

We are now going out to buy a bunch of poppies for the girl friend. Auf wiedersehen (German).

THE CAT'S WHISKERS

Our cat's had kittens. We don't mind our cat living kittens once in a while but it's getting too hot these days, what with the depression, and the price of meat and milk. We told our cat about it.

We said: Muzzy (our cat), this must stop at once. We may be fond of cats, but seven in one house is a little too much. Besides, there may be seven more by Christmas.

Muzzy said: Please don't be indelicate.

We said: No offence meant. But please do try and remember that moderation in all things.

She said: There is no moderation in love. When you give you give all.

We said: This is not the proper place to discuss such matters. We merely wish to say that if it occurs again we shall turn you out on the street, never to darken our door again.

She said: Cruel and heartless though the world may be, I am ready to endure any hardship—nay, even death itself—for the sake of the one I love.

At that moment The One She Loves, or The Cause of All the Trouble, or The Disolute Ginger Cat That Lives Next Door, leapt from behind a chair through a window, breaking a whiskey decanter as it passed on its way to another appointment.

"Don't blame me, mister; I don't write all this stuff."

SCARED"

A 13-years-old boy, who was left alone in an empty house for ten days gave evidence at Belgrave Police Court when his father was fined £15 for neglecting him in a manner likely to cause suffering and injury to his health.

The prosecution was instituted by the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

The boy, Kenneth Coates, son of Thomas Coates of Oak Cottage, The Chase, Chipstead, a motor salesman, told the court that on July 30 his father and stepmother said they were going away for a holiday. He was told to sleep in the kitchen, as the other rooms were locked up.

Food was left, and he was told not to make himself ill. The food consisted of cold mutton and tinned meat and fruit, and each day the milkman and baker called.

FOOD POISONING.
Questioned by Mr. Lovell Hewitt, for the defence, Kenneth denied that his father came back the same night and remained at home for two days. He agreed that the food left included lamb, cake, jam, eggs, honey, tea, apples, and oranges, and that he was told to get anything else he wanted at a local shop. His father told him not to eat stuff in tins after they were opened.

P. C. Butterfill said that he found Kenneth ill on a bed in the kitchen on August 9. The boy said he had been eating mutton which his parents had cooked before they went away. The kitchen was very dirty and the boy was scared.

Replying to Mr. Hewitt, P. C. Butterfill said that he knew the boy had been left for a week on a previous occasion.

Dr. F. Sall said that Kenneth was suffering from food poisoning and he ordered him to a hospital.

FATHER'S DEBTS.
Contes told the court that after taking his wife and daughter to Weymouth in a motor-car on July 30 for a holiday he returned the same night, and was also at home on the following night.

He was then ordered away on a tour by his employers, and having no alternative, left Kenneth with sufficient food and instructions. He returned home on August 12. He was several hundred pounds in debt, penniless, and was expecting a mortgage on the house to be foreclosed.

A similar summons against Ethel Mary Coates, the stepmother, was dismissed.

The N.S.P.C.C. were given the custody of Kenneth until a home could be found for him.

At Soccer.*EXHIBITION MATCH.

Shanghai, Oct. 23. The Hongkong Soccer Team, which was eliminated by Shanghai in the National Sports meeting at Nanking, fully redeemed itself yesterday afternoon when, before a huge crowd of spectators, it defeated Shanghai in an exhibition match by the odd goal in three. Mr. Wu Tsh-ling, mayor of Shanghai, kicked off.

Shanghai was without the service of Chow, their star goalie, whose place was taken by Lu Chung-yun. When Hongkong was hot on the attack, Lu, in an attempt to clear, kicked the ball against Han, the Shanghai left back. The ball rebounded into the net. Before the interval, Hongkong established a further lead.

Shanghai had more of the game in the second half, but the Hongkong defence was sound. At last, the northerners reduced the lead when Li Yee-sen scored from a penalty kick.

At the end of the match, Mr. Wu Tsh-ling presented the Hongkong team with a large silver cup.

The Hongkong team may stage one or two more exhibition matches in Shanghai before their return.—Wah Kia Yat Po.

The C. B. A. ladies' forward line were inclined to bunch too much, while the C. B. S. girls kept to their positions fairly well. Miss Knill lead them well, but was marked by Miss Deavin, the C. B. A. centre half.

Owing to the late start the match was played 25 minutes in the first half and 20 minutes in the second.

MODERN
ADAM & EVE*NATURAL LIFE IN SOUTH SEAS*COUPLES' "GRIM FOOD"

Los Angeles, California. A South Seas island, where a modern Adam and Eve pursue a primitive existence far from civilization, may be seen by visiting scientists, but to Lady Churston it is "most depressing."

Lady Denise Churston of Devon made a tour of the Southern Islands and saw Dr. Charles Ritter and his companion, Frau Koervin, the German pair who in 1929 exiled themselves on the isolated island of Charles in the Galapagos group to carry out their theories of healthful living in nature.

Lady Churston said that she and her party aboard the yacht "White Shadows" had stopped at the island last year and seen the couple in the pursuit of the "natural life."

"Their shack—it is only one room, built of rough timber—la high and remote, approached only by a long climb, she said. "At the foot of the path is a sign warning visitors to ring the bell and let them know they have callers, for they go about all the time absolutely stark. In honour of visitors, they don garments—he, rough shorts and a shirt, she a loose skirt and blouse."

"The day we arrived they had just had a catastrophe. Pigs had torn down the fences of their garden and uprooted everything. It had happened before and they were sadly upset by it. Then there were the ants. They were in everything. All food had to be kept standing in solutions to keep them out. Frau Koervin kept house and worked in the garden. They had to work terribly hard, it seemed to me. It's no life for a woman. Never seeing anyone, going to bed frightfully early—oh, most depressing."

The raw food theorist and Frau Koervin were upholding his theories, Lady Churston observed. They eat fruits and nuts, occasionally a little chicken, with all foods mashed in a pap.

RUBBER TEETH.

Dr. Ritter had pulled all his own teeth and all of hers, she said. "It was one of his theories, I gathered, that man should live to be at least 100, and that the teeth were a cause of shortened lives. However, he had made sets of rubber teeth which they wore."

"Altogether, it seemed to me a most unpleasant life. They have books and what papers are left by visitors, but no music of any kind, and when we arrived to call they told us we were the first visitors in 18 months. Ships rarely stop there. Dr. Ritter collects copra and exchanges it for supplies when a ship does come."

Lady Churston and friends did not accept the Ritter hospitality to the extent of dining with them. "Oh, no," she said, shuddering, "the food looked too grim."—Reuters.

MASKED BURGLAR
AT BEDSIDE*NURSEMAID TOLD TO
"KEEP QUIET"

Two "very polite" burglars raided the house of Mr. L. S. Goldstone in St. Catharines-road, Hampstead, N.W., when Miss Diana Rowe, a 19-years-old nursemaid, was alone in the house with Mr. Goldstone's two-years-old son.

Miss Rowe told a reporter that she was in bed when the burglars appeared.

"I had answered the telephone shortly before 10 o'clock," she said. "Scarcely had I got back into bed than two men came into the room. One was wearing a mask and flashed a torch upon me. His companion covered his face with his hands."

"When the men left they told me not to move. I was so frightened that I did not do so until Mrs. Goldstone came home soon after midnight. The burglars had fastened the front door, and she had to get police help before she could get in."

It was found that a small sum of money was missing.

NINETY-SIX TAKING PART IN WIND UP OF BOWLS SEASON

CHOCOLATE AND WATSON

CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT DOUBTFUL

THE POSITION

"In spite of all that has been said, I am not expecting Kid
Chocolate to defend his world championship against Seaman
Watson."

Thus Mr. John Mortimer, guide,
philosopher and friend to the English title-holder, in a letter to
Mr. Geoffrey Simpson, the Daily
Mail boxing correspondent says.

But I can understand Mr. Mor-timer's doubts in the matter. He is convinced that the brown-skinned man from Cuba does not want Watson at any price.

He went to Paris to clinch the match, guaranteed Chocolate £4,000, and got "No" for an answer.

Watson, we must remember, lost
a hairline verdict to Chocolate
when he made his first bid for the world title in New York.

GROTESQUE.

So that as it may, I know that Chocolate has signed to fight for
Mr. Jeff Dickson at the Albert Hall on October 30. Perhaps he will settle the point about his title
after he has seen his prospective opponent in action in the same
arena.

For Chocolate will be in a ringside seat when Watson stakes his British championship against Tommy Rogers, his challenger
from Willenhall.

AUSTRALIAN CRICKET IN DANGER

Poaching By Lancashire League Warning

A prediction of trouble ahead
for Australian cricket, unless conditions for Test and promising players are made more attractive,
is made by A. A. Malley, the former Test player, writing in the Sydney Sun.

"The poaching of Australian
cricketers by Lancashire League
clubs will continue until conditions
more favourable to cricketers provail here," says Malley, who adds:
"Australian cricket would get a bad job if, say, Bradman and O'Reilly accepted Lancashire
League offers."

Malley suggests that if a Test player's allowance for the tour in England were increased from £600
to £1,000, it would not seriously affect his amateur status, "since £600 for the trip is far above the amount allowed under the amateur constitution."

EMPIRE TOURNAMENT.

While on the subject of over-seas
cricketers joining the Lancashire League, Malley says there might soon be sufficient Empire cricketers
in England in 1936 to play an Empire tournament without calling in outside assistance.

"The Lancashire League," he says, "is becoming so popular that it could, if it wished to alter its rules, employ many more first-class
Dominion players."

The suggested Empire cricket tournament might be acceptable to most of the other countries, but Australia, he says, who expect an English team in 1936-37, "would not see much humour in losing £20,000 clear profit which we expect from the gates of an English team's visit."

GOLF RECORD

To hole two tee shots and yet suffer defeat in a championship
final was the bitter experience of Eric Fiddian, the 23-years-old
Stourbridge golfer last month.

He was playing in the Irish Open Amateur Championship on
the Royal County Down links, near Belfast, and the man who vanquished him—by 3 and 2—was Jack McLean, the 22-years-old
Glasgow player, who has now won
the Scottish and Irish Amateur Championships twice in succession.

Fiddian was as surprised as any spectator when, after McLean had played a fine shot close to the seventh hole (128yds.), he saw his own mashie niblick shot pitch about a foot short of the hole
and finish up resting against the
pin. He lifted the flag and the ball dropped for a hole in one.

That made him all-square with McLean, but the latter recovered
quickly from the shock and finished
the first round two up.

SEEMED BEWILDERED.

The situation became desperate
for Fiddian when, at the 14th hole in the second round, he was 3 down
with 5 to play.

It was here that he accomplished his second feat of jugglery by holing an iron shot
over a distance of 205 yards.
Fiddian seemed bewildered,
but McLean took it as a good
joke and smilingly remarked,
"Good shot!"

"What can you say when such a thing happens?" said Fiddian
after the match. "I knew it was a good shot, but, of course, it was good luck as well."

It is a record to hole two tee shots in a championship match,
but several golfers have holed two tee shots during one round. J. H.
Bussan, the former professional,
accomplished this feat when he was only 15, while a Canadian professional, Alex Guthrie, holed two successive holes in one stroke
each on the Vancouver Club course
in 1911.

Two women playing at St.
Augustine's, Ramsgate, in 1925,
actually halved a hole in one.

SELECTED

Arrangements are now completed
for the competition for the Aitkenhead Shield which will be played off at Happy Valley on Saturday afternoon.

The draw took place yesterday
afternoon at the Civil Service C.C.
and results are printed below. Provided the weather is favourable, some interesting play should be seen, as some of the rinks are very evenly
balanced.

Players will assemble at the Police
R.C. at 2.15 p.m. and play will commence at 2.30 p.m. sharp. Players will arrange for their wools to be on their respective rinks before play
commences.

It is the intention of the Hongkong
Lawn Bowls Association to have a
group photograph taken at 2.20 p.m.
for the purpose of sending it to Mr.
R. C. Aitkenhead, the donor of the Shield, as a memento of the occasion,
together with a description of the afternoon's game.

Following the game, a presentation of all the Association's prizes will be made by Mrs. Russell, wife of Mr. J. Russell, President of the Association, at the Police R.C. at 5.30 p.m.

Entertainment during the afternoon
will be in the hands of Mr. R. P.
Phillips, who will be master of ceremonies for the occasion, with the aid
of willing helpers from other clubs.
Players are particularly requested
to be prompt.

Tea will be served at all clubs to ladies attending the game. No stoppages will be held during the game, but tea will be served to the players
as usual.

The Aitkenhead Shield will be presented to the club in the highest position of the League and spoons will be presented on the afternoon's play to the winning team of shots.
Captains of the two teams are F.
L. Rapley (Kowloon) and A. W.

Green Tennis Shorts Now

SKIRTS "BY REQUEST" AT TOURNAMENT

Since Mrs. Fearnley Whitting-
stall set the fashion, women lawn tennis players have worn shorts at almost every Home tournament.
Shorts of a vivid green were seen at the Welsh covered championships at Llandudno, and no
one was shocked. But shorts were not seen at the recent tournament at Sidmouth.

At the time it was wondered
why. Later it was learnt that shorts were forbidden by the committee.

They said that while they did not object to shorts they were afraid that the new dress might shock their old patrons, to whom they had sold a lot of seats. They therefore "requested" that skirts
should be worn.

The request was backed by a veiled threat, because a player at Sidmouth asserted that the referee, Mr. Hamilton Price, let it be known that if a woman
appeared in shorts, she would not be allowed to play on the centre court even though she were a star.

RAISING GOLF STANDARD

INNOVATION BY HOME CLUB

London.

Allan Dailey, who played for Scotland in this year's professional international match
and who rose to fame by his amazing victory in the Kochampton tournament in April, has been appointed playing-professional to the Addin-ton Golf Club, Croydon.

Dailey is at present attached to the Bradley Hall Club, Halifax.
He will begin his new duties on November 1, in partnership with
V. L. Ritchie, the Addington professional.

The appointment of this brilliant Yorkshireman, 25 years of age, is regarded as foreshadowing a new movement in golf.
CLUB COMPLAINT.

It has long been the complaint of members of golf clubs that their professional, if a distinguished tournament player, is frequently away playing in tournaments. On the other hand professionals have explained their eclipse by Americans by pointing out that their duties, which include club-making
and teaching, permit of very little time for attention to practice play.

Both sections have justification
for complaints which may be disposed of if the example of Addin-ton is followed.

Dailey will not supersede
Ritchie, for many years, but will be associate "playing professional."
It is the intention of the club
authorities to give Dailey every opportunity of playing with the low handicap members. These could gain valuable experience during play with a powerful professional golfer.

SEASON'S BEST GAME

RANGERS

AT HIGHBURY

In the best match I have seen this season Glasgow Rangers defeated the Arsenal at Highbury
by three goals to one, writes F. M.
Carruthers of the Daily Mail.

In these tests between the champions of the two countries Scottish football has not only been triumphant but superior. Although this was not so marked on in Glasgow
a week previous owing to the improvement of the home side, it was again definite.

If the Rangers truly represent Scottish football, we must change
our view of it.

Not only did they work tremendously hard, refusing to regard the match as an exhibition, but they played in more open and first-time style than the Arsenal. Indeed,
the way in which they made use of the whole field by exploiting the cross-pass was the outstanding features of the game.

ALWAYS TRYING.

The Arsenal fought just as doggedly. Even when they were two goals down they refused to give up trying to pull the match out of the fire.

There was cleverness in their attacks, but they were inclined to be cramped in the middle, and against such fine covering it was hard to break through.

The Arsenal started well, getting the first goal, Lambert picking up
a down-the-middle pass by James.
The centre forward obtained an even better goal, but he was given offside by the referee, who was
many yards in the rear.

Rangers started scoring as the result of a brilliant shot by Marshall. Fleming who had gone to centre forward in place of Smith who had hurt a leg, headed a second from a corner, and the same player put on the third with a shot which Moss should have saved.

The understanding and position-al play of the Scottish forwards
and the way in which they put
the ball back to bring the halves into the attack were splendid. For a long time in the second half the Arsenal defenders were sorely pressed.

But the match was useful from the Arsenal's standpoint in showing that they may safely play Birkett at outside right in the absence of Hulme.

I have become a custom to say that Bastin was the best of the Arsenal forwards. This cannot be over-emphasised on this occasion. He was always dangerous.

Arsenal—Moss; Male, Hapgood;
Hills, Roberts, John; Birkett,
Bowden, Lambert, James, Bastin.
Rangers—Dawson; Gray, Mc-Donald; Melkelfohn, Simpson,
Brown; Archibald, Marshall,
Smith, McPhail, Fleming.

FAR EASTERN OLYMPICS

Programme For 10th Meeting

The executive committee of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation have listed the invitation event to be included in the Tenth Far Eastern Championships to be held in Manila next year.

Fancy diving, women's swimming, water polo and women's volleyball are included in the programme of invitation events. In women's volleyball a provision was made which would disqualify countries other than regular members
of the Far Eastern Athletic Association from participating.

The events agreed upon for the invitation women's swimming are:
200 metre relay, 50 metre free
style, 100 metre free style, 100
metre back stroke and 200 metre breast stroke.

The P.A.A.F. executive committee also favoured including women's tennis in the official programme of sports for the Tenth Far Eastern Championships Games.
The proposal will be submitted to both Japan and China.

The committee further decided that women's tennis be conducted on the Davis Cup System with the only exception that all matches will be decided in "two best out of three."

Substantially bounding over the net, Fred J. Perry, English tennis ace, rushes to strike the hand of his vanquished fellow Britisher, Jack Crawford of Australia, at the end of their final-round match in the U. S. tennis singles championship at Forest Hills, N. Y. The score was 6-2, 11-13, 4-6, 6-0, 6-1. Perry is the first English player to capture the American title in the last 30 years.

THESE TWO THOUSAND SINGLE MEN

By GERALD BLACK.

Two thousand bachelor apartments have lately been equipped and furnished by as many eager young Freshmen of Oxford and Cambridge.

Whatever ideas parents may hold and even impose in the matter of furnishing these rooms it will not be long before their occupants discover that the chief necessities are not, after all, the perfectly toning curtains and cushions or the elegantly framed photographs with which everyone starts undergraduate life.

These fall eventually into a gently tolerated secondary position. Nor by any means of first importance are those various articles which the local shops attempt to sell to the unwary, such as triangular flags in college colours or handsome crests on shields or fire screens.

These are the only three essentials—a portable gramophone, a pipe-rack, a never-failing coffee-pot; the wise Freshman always puts these first.

And if during the year an ear won in the bumping races can be hung above, or a college cap perched on the corner of a team photo, the ensemble thereby becomes faultlessly complete in essentials.

For the rest, the appointments may be, and generally are, non-descript. This is for several reasons. The majority of the new bachelors will not go into bare rooms. Nearly every college at either university is so full that two years out of three have to be spent by the undergraduate in lodgings in the town.

BACHELORS ALL.
At Cambridge it is the custom practically throughout for these to be the first two, after which the final year is enjoyed in college. At Oxford the opposite plan prevails.

Both systems have their advantages and disadvantages, but from the point of view of furnishing they make little difference.

At Cambridge, the Freshman has the accumulations of his landlady to contend with, while at Oxford he has those of his predecessors, for most newcomers agree to take over the more stable furniture for which the outgoing men have ceased to have use.

So it happens that the backbone of the furnishing problem has been broken for most of these 2,000 bachelors before they and those anxious to advise them have any choice.

This is all to the good. It prevents dissipation of energy and allows for concentration on that essential domestic trinity—gramophone, pipe-rack, and coffee-pot.

CHINA TO FORTIFY SOUTHERN SHORES

NEW SUBMARINES

Canton, Oct. 23.

A comprehensive scheme for the expansion of the naval defence of southern Kwangtung has been forwarded to the South-west Political Council by the Department of the Navy here. This department strongly suggests the expenditure of $10,000,000 within the next three years and building of fortifications in Hainan Islands, South-east Kwangtung, and conversion of the coral islands in South China Sea into a naval base by the construction of fortifications and aerodromes and wireless stations there.

It is disclosed for the first time that the Navy here has ordered the construction of two submarines abroad and that these submarines are expected to arrive before the end of December.

This is the introduction of a submarine force in the South China Navy. These submarines are equipped with the most up-to-date armaments. The Government has ordered the cruiser Hai Chi, with a number of naval experts, to proceed to the South China Sea coral islands to investigate into the advisability of building a naval base to form a link with similar aerial and naval bases in Hainan. —Wah Kit Yat Po.

What a Doctor Says About Neuralgia.

At this time of year, when neuralgia and similar troubles are common, the following dictum of a physician who for a number of years prior to his retirement was well-known in Shanghai and other parts of the Far East is of special interest.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills recommend themselves as just such a tonic as the doctor specifies, designed to build up rich blood and strong nerves. They have been proven time and again helpful in minimizing the recurrence of neuralgic attacks, also as a curative remedy for rheumatic pains, sciatica, lumbago, nervous debility, as well as for anaemia and other ailments due to an impoverished condition of the blood or run down nerves. Obtainable from chemists everywhere.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

A neat strip play is the clue to the solution of the contract problem printed in the last issue. Charles A. Hall, one of Cincinnati's outstanding players, made the hand in a recent tournament. He arrived at the six heart contract, with his partner, as follows:

The Bidding.

Mr. Hall in the South bid one heart. West passed and North went to three hearts. This is a forcing bid demanding that the original bidder bid either four hearts or three no trump if he holds a minimum. Any other bid would be constructive and would be treated as a mild slam try. Mr. Hall responded with four diamonds. This was all that North needed to carry the contract to six hearts.

The Play

West's opening lead was a club which Mr. Hall won with the king and led the ace and king of hearts. West's queen dropped, but the good jack was still out. Mr. Hall then led a small club, won in dummy with the ace, returned the queen and discarded the eight of spades.

As the jack of hearts was located in the East hand, Mr. Hall now started to lead diamonds, not caring when East trumped, and also not fearing the location of the king of spades because if East trumped the third diamond he would be forced to lead a spade, in which case Mr. Hall would not lose a spade trick. While if East refused to trump and discarded two spades, Mr. Hall himself would

Today's Contract Problem

North plays the following hand at four hearts, doubled by West. East leads the six of spades, which South takes with the ace and returns a small club. East takes this with the ace and returns another club, hoping his partner would run. Now how would you, as North, complete the play to make four hearts?

If East returns a club, Mr. Hall will trump in one hand and discard the losing spade from the other. By employing a strip play he had made his contract of six hearts.

Bed Which Weighs Puff Of Air

REVEALS SOURCES
OF UNREST

New Haven, Connecticut.
A bed which can weigh a puff of air is revealing obscure sources of unrest to observers at the Yale University Institute of Human Relations.

The bed records the minute-by-minute loss in weight of persons asleep, or resting quietly while awake. This is called the "insensible loss" due most to loss of water through the breath and evaporation from the skin. Such loss is normal for all persons.
The weight of 160-pound man drops an average of about an ounce and a half an hour. But the bed reveals that this rate of loss is not steady. The fluctuations bring to light hidden emotional disturbances.

The weighing bed is set up in the laboratory of physiological psychology, which is under the direction of Dr. Walter R. Miles, professor of psychology at the Yale School of Medicine. It is a cot, suspended by a chain like a scale pan. The bed will register weight changes of one part in a million.

A TEST.

One of the sleepers was a man troubled with outbreaks of restlessness. He would grasp his head with both hands, rolling from side to side, muttering.

At the beginning of sleep his weight loss was two grams, or about one-fourteenth of a pound, every four or five minutes. But during seizures this loss mounted to two grams a minute, temporarily at the rate of a quarter pound

This loss would show a sharp decline right after seizure, as if his body had relieved itself of some strong tension. When he slept in the daytime his drop in weight was even slower than in any night period, as if he were then free from some fear that usually pestered him at night.

A possible explanation of the restless nights was found in one of his business habits. For years he had the responsibility of opening a business office early and on time. But he used no alarm clock. Instead, he relied wholly on his "unfailing ability" to awaken on time. This inner tension evidently caused many needless awakenings during the night.
The weighing method in the psychological laboratory furnished an objective analysis of this obscure human difficulty.—Reuter.

"WE NEVER WORRY"

SAYS MR. BALDWIN

Mr. Stanley Baldwin in a broadcast introduction to a series of talks on national character, said:
"No people grumble more than we do."

"I do myself every day, but though I grumble I do not worry, but keep cheerful."

It is exactly the same with all English people. As a nation we grumble, we never worry.

"The more difficult the times the more cheerful we become."

"We are always serene in times of difficulty."

AND WE CAN LAUGH.

"We can laugh at ourselves."

"Laughter is one of the best things God has given us and with hearty laughter neither malice nor indecency can exist."

"Kindness, sympathy with the underdog, love of home, are not these all the characteristics of the ordinary Englishman we all know?"
"He is a strong individualist in this, that he does not want to mould himself into any common mould to be like everyone else."

"He likes to develop his own individuality and yet he can combine for service."

"Let us hold on to what we are.
Let us not try to be like anybody else."

"We can respect the fine qualities of other countries, but let us keep our own."

CANTON CAUTIOUS?

ANTI-JAPANESE PROPAGANDA

A "CEASE FIRE" ORDER

Canton, Oct. 24.

In compliance with the policies of the South-West Administration, the Canton Kuomintang Party headquarters have notified various popular bodies and patriotic societies to the following effect:

"While, in face of the present national crisis, the people and the Government should make double effort in working out self-salvation, attention should be given to methods and manner in achieving our ultimate object.

"The Government considers it advisable to keep the patriotic movement conducted by various popular bodies to a more practicable track with the least possible ostentation. Hereafter, all slogans and other means of propaganda which might unnecessarily incur diplomatic complications or trouble, should be abolished."—Central News Agency.

There have been rumours of late of the possibility of Japanese demonstrations in South China as a result of the continued vigour of the anti-Japanese boycott and propaganda generally.

SERIOUS CRISIS THREATENS

MOVE FARTHER RIGHT FORESHADOWED

DANGER TO FRANC

PARIS, OCT. 24.

THE FALL OF THE DALADIER GOVERNMENT, WHILE NOT UNEXPECTED, IS VIEWED WITH APPREHENSION IN MANY QUARTERS.

Right up to the last moment it was hoped that the Socialists could be won over to the Budget proposals, but the Socialists declined to vote for salary cuts.

No-one doubts that the development may precipitate a serious crisis, the obvious danger to the franc being one reason and the grave international situation arising from Germany's withdrawal from the League being another.

M. Daladier's government, which kept in office for about nine months, was the third combination of the Radicals and the Socialists in the present Legislature, the other Cabinets of the same associations being those of M. Herriot and M. Paul-Boncour.

POSSIBLE NEW PREMIERS

It may be assumed that M. Daladier's downfall sounds the death-knell of the Left Cartel.

The Ministry of the next Government must stretch further to the Right, which means a still lesser disposition to make concessions to Germany.

SOCIALISTS DONE WITH

The next government will undoubtedly turn its back on the Socialists, although it will have to retain the Radicals as its nucleus, the Radicals, led by M. Herriot, being the largest party in Parliament.

The voting against M. Daladier was 329 to 241, a margin of nearly ninety.

He is, of course, tendering his resignation immediately.

Despite the fact that the decision was reached in the early hours of the morning, the Ministers drove to the Elysee to tender their resignations.

POSSIBLE SUCCESSORS.

Possible successors to M. Daladier are:

- M. Albert Sarraut (Radical)
- M. Chaumets (ex-Finance Minister, Radical)
- M. Caillaux, the President of the Finance Commission of the Senate, and the leading political finance expert.

It is thought that foreign policy will follow very much the same lines as that of the Daladier Government.

WHAT NEXT?

A tax on salaries or pensions, or the overthrow of the Government, was the bold challenge of M. Daladier. The Government was overthrown. The next Government will, however, come up against precisely the same problems.—Reuter.

Paris, Oct. 24.

After a debate lasting long into the night, M. Daladier was defeated in the Chamber on a Budget division.

M. Daladier was defeated by a margin of about thirty votes. The result was in line with expectations. The hopes of a compromise on the civil servants' salary cut gradually dimmed, although the final support for the Premier was greater than was at first anticipated.

Owing to the seriousness of the political situation, President Lebrun ### returned to Paris yesterday.

The Chamber was crowded when the Budget debate, on which the future of the franc may depend, was resumed this morning.

The Communists attacked, moving amendments which M. Lamoureux, defending the budget, declared killed the lottery scheme by which the Government hopes to swell its income.

After passing the first article, M. Daladier requested the Chamber immediately to debate the most important proposals, such as provisions designed to prevent fraud and the taxation of civil servants.—Reuter.

TRAGIC DEATH

FAMOUS SURGEON COLLAPSES

DR. D.J. ARMOUR

London, Oct. 23.

The death occurred under tragic circumstances to-day of Dr. Donald John Armour, who collapsed after finishing an address to the Medical Society, London.—Reuter.

Dr. Armour, who was surgeon to the National Hospital for Nervous Diseases, was created C.M.G. in 1918. He was one of the most famous of present day physicians, his numerous appointments including consulting-surgeon to the West London Hospital, to the Italian Hospital, Blackheath and Charlton Hospitals and to the Acton Hospital.

BRILLIANT CAREER.

The son of the Hon. John Armour, Chief Justice of Ontario, Dr. Armour was born in Canada, and pursued a remarkably successful course of studies at the Toronto and London Universities.

He became Lecturer in the Medical Society, London, in 1927 and was elected President of the Society in 1929.

He also held the presidential offices of the West London Medical-Chirurgical Society, the Neurological section of the Royal Society of Medicine and of the Association of British Neurological Surgeons.

He was late Senior Demonstrator of Anatomy at University College, London, and in addition was surgeon to the Bolgrave Hospital for children and to the Italian Hospital.

He was surgeon-specialist to numerous hospitals during the War, and was Hon. Lieut. Colonel R.A.M.C. For his War services he was created C.M.G. and mentioned in despatches.

THE RETAIL CODE SIGNED

Washington, Oct. 23.

President Roosevelt has signed the retail code, which becomes effective on October 30.

POST OFFICE RESEARCH

THE WORLD'S DEBT TO BRITAIN

NEW LABORATORY OPENED

London, Oct. 23.

The Prime Minister to-day formally opened the new extension of the Post Office Research Station at Dollis Hill.

The station was established before the war and the apparatus is now being transferred to larger new premises, better suited to laboratory work.

Among the many other inventions and discoveries which have been applied to the improvement of communications, the Dollis Hill experts are largely responsible for the recent rapid and remarkable developments of long distance telephony.

The work already done has given the laboratory world-wide recognition and among those benefiting from its research work are the engineering students sent to London by the telephone and telegraph administrations of many foreign Governments.—British Wireless.

CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY

LOAN FLOTATION FORECAST

Nanking, Oct. 23.

Interviewed by Pressmen to-day Mr. Tsung Chung-ming, the Vice-Minister of Railways, stated that for the completion of the Canton-Hankow Railway the Chinese Government will probably float bonds to the value of about $16,000,000 to $20,000,000 to be secured on the British Boxer Fund.—Reuter.

THE FANG MYSTERY

REPORTED TO BE HEAD FOR CANTON IN DISGUISE

Peking, Oct. 24.

The elusive rebel leader, General Fang Chen-wu, is now reported to have passed through Hsuehow in company with his ally, General Chi Hung-chang, by train en route to Shanghai.

Both leaders are reported to have cut their beards and to be disguised as merchants. They are accompanied by four attendants similarly disguised.

They are credited with the intention of proceeding to Canton to join the Southern faction. It is reported they broke their journey at Talian, but the reports do not mention whether they called on their former chief, General Feng Yu-shiang, who is living there in retirement.—Reuter.

SUGAR DISPUTE IN HAINAN

CUSTOMS OFFICIAL ATTACKED

Nanking, Oct. 23.

Representatives of Chinese sugar mills of Hainan Island in South Kwangtung are at present in Nanking seeking redress of alleged grievances against the Hainan Customs authorities.

The representatives allege that a shipment of native sugar was mistaken by the Customs for foreign product and a fine was wrongly imposed on the owners for non-payment of import duty.

The representatives state that the Customs' way of identifying native sugar is all wrong and should be radically changed and also demanded the dismissal of the Commissioner of Customs in Hainan Island.—Reuter.

PEKING PUZZLED

JAPANESE FLIGHT TO CHANGCHUN

Peking, Oct. 23.

The Japanese Military Attache, Shibayama, left here for Changchun to-day in an aeroplane decorated with the "Manchukuo" flag.

MRS. LOCKHART-SMITH PASSES AWAY

We have to record with regret the death, which occurred at the French Hospital this morning, of Mrs. Alice Janet Lockhart-Smith, the wife of Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, who only a few days ago was appointed to act as Official Receiver.

Mrs. Lockhart-Smith had been ill for some time, but news of her death will come as a shock to a wide circle of friends. She had been in the Colony for only a little more than a year, and was married about two years ago.

There is an infant daughter of the marriage.

The funeral takes place this evening at the Protestant Cemetery at five o'clock.

CANTON AIRMAIL SERVICE

ENTERING GOLD MARKET

Washington, Oct. 23.

The belief is growing that President Roosevelt's announcement on monetary policy means that an attempt is to be made to establish what is termed a "Commodity Dollar."

It is announced by trustworthy sources that the Government may be expected to begin the purchase of newly-mined gold through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (as President Roosevelt foreshadowed yesterday) almost immediately.

There is also reason to believe that the price to be fixed will probably be above the London and Paris market prices.

CHEAPER DOLLAR.

Officials believe that the effect of fixing the price at a higher rate will be calculated to free the American dollar from European influence and will result:

- (1) In the cheapening of the dollar as compared with sterling or francs;
- (2) An increase in the world price of gold because twenty-five or thirty thousand ounces which have hitherto been shipped out would remain in the United States.—Reuter.

LONDON PUZZLED

Criticism of U.S. Policy

London, Oct. 24.

Most financial experts in London admit their inability to understand President Roosevelt's money policy.

"This is the most difficult and unintelligible of all the gold gadgets," says the Financial News. The Times is of the opinion that a "managed" currency cannot be reconciled with the restoration of the gold standard or with sound currency, or with a revalued dollar.

INTERNATIONAL STANDARD.

The Morning Post declares that even an apparently stable price level is no guarantee of healthy underlying conditions. If America follows President Roosevelt's course, this generation is not likely to see the restoration of a uniform international standard.

The Financial Times submits that to say the United States is moving towards a managed currency, that such currency will be sound and that the dollar will be revalued after a restoration of price levels, carries no conviction.—Reuter.

DEATH OF W. N. DOAK

IN THE HOOVER CABINET

New York, Oct. 23.

The death occurred to-day of Mr. W. N. Doak, Labour Secretary in the Hoover administration.—Reuter.

Mr. William Nickles Doak, who was born in 1882, was for many years a Labour Union official. He was General Chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen for the Norfolk and Western System from 1903 to 1916, and Vice-President from 1916 to 1923. He was a National Legislative representative from 1916 to the time of his death.

He was also editor and manager of the Railroad Trainmen from 1923.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

If you're planning to try one of the new autumn ensembles, you'll probably need a permanent wave.

These new styles of hair dress are softly waved affairs and many of them have rows and rows of little curls at the back of the neck. Naturally, rows of curls are easier to retain if you have a permanent.

Shop around a bit before you decide on the place to get your wave. There is no economy in getting a bargain-permanent. The best is none too good for your hair. Remember that the operator who does the waving is more important than the kind of wave. If the waving is done properly and your hair tested before anything is done, you won't have split ends and falling hair.

The test curl is all important. Only by making a test of one lock of hair before anything else is done, does the operator know what strength lotion to use and how much heat to apply.

If you dislike sitting under a heavy, hot machine, by all means investigate the new machine-less permanents before you make your appointment. They take much less time, aren't painful at all and there is no danger of getting burned since no heat is applied. The action takes place in the pads which are treated with various chemicals. The pads get hot the minute they are put around the hair and then start to cool in less than five minutes.

In spite of all their seemingly simple good points, have no fear that they won't keep your hair waved as long as the other kinds. They, too, are guaranteed for six months.

Locks that click with men hold a key to success in love.

White Plaid Organdie Adds Smart Touch

Gloria Stuart.

Hollywood.—It is the little things that make Hollywood costumes so interesting.

For instance, with a simple navy blue crepe dress, Gloria Stuart wears a pair of blue and white plaid organdie gauntlets, a wide bow tie of same organdie stuck through slits in the neck of her dress and a bit of the organdie making a decorative cuff around a little blue stry fez.

Dorothy Lee wore a green lacy evening gown with pleats at the sides running clear up the skirt to the shoulders and green satin slippers with flesh-coloured ties to match her long suede gloves.

Betty Furness wore a white wrap-around crepe dress, that fastened at the sides with bright red buttons and then had a fringed sash of red, white and blue. Her hat, too was red, white and blue.

Dolores Del Rio wore a black and white suit, bathing suit in her own pool. The suit comprised of a kerchief top and white shorts laced up the sides with black and white black graduated stripes around the bottom.

Jean Parker wore a black satin dress with white ruching high about neck, in good, old pre-war manner, and three-quarters sleeves. Also a tiny black satin hat, looking very Parisienne.

YOUR CHILDREN.

By Olive Roberts Barton

"How are the children?" inquired Mrs. Holmes. Mrs. Clark, her caller, replied that they were very well.

"How fortunate," sighed Mrs. Holmes. "Beth has had a series of summer colds. I really don't believe she is fit to go back to school."

The conversation turned on school for a few minutes, but it was more about Beth's school prospects than about Mrs. Clark's children's school prospects.

The visitor, sensing this, listened as patiently as possible to all the misfortunes of Beth during the last two years.

Clothes were the next thing. Mrs. Clark said she wanted to take in a sale of rain coats on the way home.

Mrs. Holmes related in detail all about Beth's rain coat. Then she went over Beth's wardrobe, piece by piece—where she had seen the plaid dress and how she had copied it for half price; how it happened that her aunt had knitted her a green sweater instead of a blue; and how the dimity had faded.

Mrs. Clark was there an hour. In that time her hostess turned every trick of conversation toward Beth. Beth sat and listened. When she had the opportunity, she would say, "Mama, tell Mrs. Clark about the time I fell into the lake" or "Tell about the time the lady at the library said I was smart."

When Mrs. Clark left she thought several things; but it doesn't here just matter what she thought.

We are interested in Beth. She had gone down the street to her aunt's. Her aunt had callers, too.

Nobody was paying much attention to Beth. She sat a while then said suddenly, "Dear me! Dear me! Dear me!"

Everybody stopped and looked at her. "What's wrong?" asked her aunt.

"Oh—I guess—never mind," said Beth and sat down again.

Auntie Steps In

The talk went on. This would not do. "I'm not very well," she said suddenly. "I guess I can't go to school."

Everybody stared for a minute and then went on talking about a tennis tournament.

"You won't," snapped auntie. "You're going home."

Beth went off to tell her mother how she had been insulted. Over the phone that evening the two sisters had it out.

"People get tired of hearing about Beth," said auntie. "And they get tired hearing her, too. You've made her think she is the centre of the universe. It isn't her fault. Try to be interested in other people's children and try to get her interested in some one else besides herself. If you don't watch out she's going to be called 'The Pest.' And will you like that?"

of the gap. I stopped my game of tennis to go and have a look at him. When I got to the spot, he'd gone.

"Goodness!" gasped Beryl. "Yes—it was pretty queer," went on Leonard, "and perhaps you can understand now why I wasn't too keen to tell you when you were in the middle of the ocean. I'm only telling you now because I believe you're the kind of person who can help—and there are so many people who only hinder."

"Thanks," she said. "Thanks—awfully. But you're going to tell the others, too, aren't you?"

He looked at her reflectively before replying.

"I haven't quite decided, Miss Haines," he said, slowly. "They'll have to learn soon, of course—but, just for the moment . . ."

"Well, I'll keep mum till you tell me not to," she interposed. "But—although I'm sure you're wiser than I am—I think you'll be making a mistake if you keep mum too long."

"I agree," he answered. "It will only be for a few hours, at most."

She picked up her mauve bathing-wrap, and threw it around her. "Anyhow," she observed, as they began to ascend the private path to the hotel, "you've told me everything, and I'm sure I feel vastly flattered."

But Leonard Sefton had not told her everything. He had not told her, for instance, that when they had been on the wreck he had heard something breathing behind

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

A Summer Mystery BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard Sefton, visiting Cravenley, discovers the disappearance of the proprietor of the Marnet Hotel. The story of the missing man's daughter, Jessica Fyne, intrigues him and he decides to stay till the mystery has been solved. A mysterious stranger, known to have visited the hotel and to have spoken as the foot of the stairs, "When Leonard is brought, however, the body is no longer there. The story of the hiding of the body is continued by tracks among the trees. Later on, playing a bunch, Leonard decides to visit the Marnet Hotel. He meets the boy, Jerry Haines, and the girl, Beryl, who are on their way to the hotel. When on board they are started by a strange cry.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

"Down among the Shadows."

For a few seconds Leonard Sefton made no response. His eyes were raised, and he was staring up at the grim metal wall beneath which they hung. Miss Haines started up, also, and then slowly lowered her eyes till they rested on her companion.

"What are you going to do?" she asked, in a low voice. "You don't think it was the girl—I can see you don't."

"I'm not sure, Miss Haines," he answered, slowly. "I did think it was, at first. But—suppose it wasn't?"

"Yes! Suppose it wasn't?" "Well, we can't quite leave it like this, can we?" he said. "So I'm going to climb on board. Do you mind hanging on to your chair for another ten minutes?"

"I won't start back without you, if that's what you mean," responded the girl. "Go ahead and act as if I wasn't here."

"Thanks," he said, although he knew that this was not possible. All the same, Miss Haines's sensible attitude relieved him somewhat, for it allowed him a little latitude.

He gripped the chair firmly and gave it a sudden tug, to test it. It held. Then he began to heave himself up, while the girl, athletic herself, watched him with admiration. Three heaves, and he had raised himself to a position from which he could clutch a broken rail. The rest was easy.

Dead ships are gruesome at the best of times, and this was not the best of times. After clambering to his feet, Leonard stared about him with a strange, compelling sensation of depression. He could not recall ever having seen a more dreary, a more ghostly sight. The ship, its funnels broken, its decks torn and scarred, its very angle an insult to human law and order, was naked of all that one could possibly desire. It abounded in vacant spaces, meaningless flooring, purposeless ways, and bridges that led to nowhere. It resembled a splintered bone from which every scrap of meat had been picked and every drain of nourishing juice extracted. In one deep-hole water-lay, dank and green, unnaturally still, presided over by some evil god of immobility that crouched here secretly amid the graceful movement of the sea. An iron railing, wrenched from some other part of the ship, poked impudently down a companion-way, like a sword in an ill-fitting scabbard. There were boards which no one trod, port-holes through which no one looked. Leonard Sefton had a stout heart, but he could not repress a shudder at this spectacle of desolation.

"God! It must have been a storm!" he muttered. And yet, even while he thought of the storm and tried to visualise its nocturnal fury, an odd sense puzzled him. Did this storm that had arisen in a night explain all he saw?

But he did not waste valuable moments in fruitless conjecture. After his first brief, swift survey, he climbed towards the cabin-quarters, and listened. He listened for a sound that was like the cry of a gull. He heard no sounds however, save the lapping of the water against the ship's sides and the breaking of the waves among the shallows.

Yes, there was another sound.

Soft footsteps in his rear. He turned round quickly, and found himself staring into the eyes of Beryl Haines.

"Sorry," she remarked. "Simply couldn't help it."

"You shouldn't have come," he reproved.

"Of course, I shouldn't," she agreed. "But don't lecture me. Random shouldn't have opened that little box that let out all the world's wickedness—but she did open it, so there you are. Discovered anything?"

He shook his head, and turned again towards the black aperture upon which he had been peering when she had interrupted him. All was quiet below.

"Benetly place, this," commented the girl.

"And we've got the sun on it," he answered.

"Yes. Imagine it in that storm!" "Or to-night, when the sun's gone down."

"When, Mr. Sefton," she pleaded. "I won't dare look at this wreck from my window when I go to bed, if you talk like that."

"You won't be able to see this wreck from your window when you go to bed," he responded. "There won't be any moon to see it by."

"So there won't. Good thing! Well—that's the next step?"

"I was going down, to have a look round."

"All right."

"I'm not sure that it is all right. You might follow me."

"Why shouldn't I follow you?" "I suppose that means you're going to?"

"It does."

"Very well. But I make one stipulation, Miss Haines. From the moment we begin to descend into this nasty hole, you're under orders. Will you promise that?"

"Yes, captain. If there's any trouble, you can give me my cue, if you like."

As they descended out of the sunlight, a sudden coldness assailed them, and they became conscious of the inadequacy of their apparel for protracted investigations of this kind. Despite herself, Beryl shivered a little, and wondered at her temerity. But two can cross a bull-field where one would stay by the stile.

"The sunken now grow heavy and close. All they could hear were their own movements, soft and stealthy. Once Beryl taught and heard a clock ticking, but recognised the sound immediately afterwards, with a tinge of shame, as her own heart. She hoped her companion did not hear it, also.

"Where are you?" she asked, suddenly.

"Here," replied Leonard's voice through the darkness. "Put out your hand."

She obeyed, and her fingers touched his. The contact was immeasurably comforting.

"Walk carefully," he next commanded. "I nearly tripped. There's been a pretty big smash just here. I wish I had a flashlight!"

"Yes, they ought to make bathing-costumes with pockets," she replied inaudibly. "Oh, my goodness! I nearly tripped, too!"

A minute later, he spoke again. "Now I'm going to holler," he warned her. "It won't be exactly a joyous sound, so get ready!"

"Holler away," she answered.

He shouted. It was not a joyous sound. His voice echoed along unseen passages and round unknown angles, and came back upon them from a dozen different points.

"Hallo!" he shouted again. "Anybody about?"

"Hallo!" came faintly, from the distance. "Anybody about?"

He shouted a third time. Then, on the point of turning—for there was a limit to time as well as to human capacity—his hand suddenly came against a door-handle.

"What is it?" asked Beryl.

"Nothing," he answered. "Just a door."

"I expect, when you open it, a jack-in-the-box will fly out."

"Well, if it does, we'll hit it on the head and make it fly back again," he retorted, and she giggled. She recalled having giggled just like that once at a mystery play when one of the characters had made a joke about a corpse.

"We needn't worry about our jack-in-the-box," said Leonard, a second later. "The door won't open."

"I won't pretend I'm disappointed," replied Beryl.

"Seems to have got jammed or something." He put his shoulder to it without success. Then he applied his ear.

"Do you—?" she began.

"Sh!" he interrupted, sharply. A full minute went by. Then, abruptly, Leonard left the door, and ordered the retreat.

"Nothing doing," he said, "and it's time we got back. We'll have our work cut out for us. Miss Haines, if we're going to keep the hotel rule that says visitors are expected to be punctual at meals."

"Yes, but don't go quite so fast," exclaimed Beryl, "or you'll lose me."

He had taken the lead, as before, and now he slackened a little. Soon, a blessed space of light blinked blue above them. They climbed up to it, and, for an instant, Beryl almost began to intoxicate.

"Oh, the sunlight—the sunlight!" she cried, and breathed deeply.

"Yes, one appreciates it after the shadow," nodded Leonard. "It was pretty uncomfortable down there wasn't it?"

They crossed to the ship's side, the girl now taking the lead, and slipped down once more into the joyous, refreshing sea. As they entered the water, it touched them everywhere with its joyous, rippling fingers, bringing back happy thoughts to their minds and the freely-flowing currents of life.

However the shadows may grip us, the sunlight is even more compelling, for no shadow on the earth can finally extinguish it.

"Isn't this wonderful?" exclaimed the girl, as they drew away from the rocks and struck-out for the shore.

"And aren't we lucky to be able to enjoy it?" replied Leonard.

"Yes, we are. Do you know, I've thought of poor Miss Fyne several times on this swim—poring over stuffy books in her little office, and—ah—with all her troubles on her."

"Pretty rough luck," said Leonard.

"Yes—I've thought of her, too."

"Do you suppose we'll be late?" "I've no notion of the time. But the tide's with us."

"Yes, but your promise is against us."

"My promise?" he queried.

"What promise?" "Have you forgotten so soon? Isn't that like a man! Why, your promise to tell me what interrupted your tennis this afternoon—to tell me as we reached shore. No dinner for me until I know that!"

"It may make us late," he smiled.

Mr. Sefton. I'd sooner miss three courses. There's our bay. We're swinging too much to the left."

They spoke little during the rest of the journey, and they reached their bay in less time than the outward journey had occupied them. The little strip of yellow sand was now completely covered, and they had to make their landing stage a rock. When they had clambered upon it, a voice hailed them from above.

"Hurry up!" called the voice. "Then it'll have to make us late."

"All right, brother mine!" sang back Beryl, and then turned to Leonard with a smile. "It'll have to be only eight minutes, I'm afraid. Now, then—tell me!"

New Eye-Testing Instrument

A new instrument which actually holds thousands of lens combinations for correcting the eyes and does away with the need of lens frames, when an optician is making tests for glasses has been on view at the Optical Exhibition, London. This picture shows the new "Refractor Head" instrument for testing eyes. (Planet News).

While uniformed attendants stand stiffly at attention, this was the impressive and awesome scene as "The Holy Coat," said to have been worn by Christ, was placed in the Cathedral at Frankfurt, Germany, for the veneration of the faithful.

BANDIT STAND

GOVERNMENT TROOPS CONTINUE ADVANCE

Peking, Oct. 23. Advancing from three directions, the Government forces in the Luan-tung area are closing in on Funging, where a force of about a thousand bandits under a minor chief is preparing to make a desperate stand. Advance guards of the special police have already reached the lower slopes of a mountain east of Funging. The lower slopes have been cleared, but 100 outlaws are believed to remain entrenched on the summit and are ready to sell their lives dearly.

The Chinese press reports that the authorities are employing conciliatory methods but are showing no weakness when their offers are refused.

Under the leadership of a woman, a force of 1,000 bandits is reported to have assembled at Tasiyu, 10 miles north of Hunjion, where General Fang Chen-yu recently made his headquarters. The bandits are stated to be massing for the purpose of attempting an advance south.

A detachment of special police has been sent to nip the trouble in the bud, while strict precautions are being taken in Hunjion.

Where is Fang?

The mystery of General Fang Chen-yu remains unsolved. Some reports now hint that the rebel leader was murdered by unknown assassins.

However, soldiers of his former command who arrived here yesterday declare General Fang is still alive. They maintain he did not arrive in Tientsin but cut off his beard in order to avoid detection, and is now on his way to Canton, for the purpose of resuming his political activities.

Some circles here, however, believe that General Fang is now definitely in Tientsin, where they assert he arrived secretly in disguise, after hiding for several days in a village near Tungchow. This version claims that the defeated general travelled from Tungchow to Tientsin on a slow train and thus escaped detection.

General Fang Chen-yu's ally, General Chi Hung-chang, who is anxious to visit Cuba, is reported to have already left Tientsin for an unknown destination.—Reuter.

OBITUARY

MILITARY HISTORIAN DIES IN CANNES

Cannes, Oct. 23. The death of Sir John William Fortescue, here to-day robbed Britain of one of her foremost military historians. The noted writer died following an operation.—Reuter.

Sir John was born in the year 1859 and was the fifth son of the third Earl of Fortescue. He was educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge, and upon completion of his education was appointed private secretary to the Governor of the Windward Islands, later holding a similar post in New Zealand. Concluding his services there he returned to England where he became an officer of the Yeomanry and took up the study of the exploits of the British Army.

In 1895 he published a "History of the Seventh Lancers" and later a work on "Dundonald" as well as the "Story of the Red Deer," and

"The Drummer's Coat." During this time he had been gathering material for the work which was to make him famous, a detailed history of the British Army comprising some thirteen volumes. This task took him nearly thirty years to complete and the financial return was so wretched that had it not been for the patronage of King Edward it is doubtful if it ever would have been completed.

In 1905 King Edward appointed him librarian at Windsor Castle and Deputy Keeper of the Royal Archives and later King George, upon his ascension to the throne retained him in these two offices. He was also given lectureships in Oxford, Cambridge and London Universities. When in March, 1930 the last volume, bringing the history up to 1870, was completed, no other army in the world had anything approaching so full and concise a record of its deeds.

John Fortescue was knighted (K.C.V.O.) in 1926 and in 1931 created a knight furor by his criticism of the Earl of Ypres Book, "1914," stating that he had never encountered such a lamentable work and that the most charitable view of it was that it was written by a monomaniac. Sir John was a great admirer of Smith-Dorrien.

NO INFLATION

President Roosevelt, under siege for weeks by advocates of inflation, has at last definitely declared for a sound money policy. There are the orthodox economists who would refuse to acknowledge a managed currency system as sound, but generally speaking they are to-day in the great minority; and Wall Street will welcome the announcement as at least putting off indefinitely the prospect of more alarming developments in the currency field. Mr. Roosevelt does not contemplate any interference with monetary matters at present, but when commodity prices are restored to the 1925 level, he proposes devaluation and stabilisation of the dollar. In the meantime, he hopes to secure what advantages lie in inflation from a process of credit inflation, in which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is to continue to play the leasing part. Loans are to be made to the farmers in attempt to mollify them and the re-financing of farm mortgages is to be speeded up, all of the measures taking the form of credit expansion moves. That the farmers have real cause for complaint is beyond question. Farm prices have risen, but retail prices have jumped in much greater proportion and they are left relatively worse off than they were before. It is not easy to satisfy farmers at any time; when they have a real grievance, they cannot be ignored. When President Roosevelt says: "If we cannot do it one way, we shall do it in another, he means that the Administration will have to find a way. In some quarters emphasis is laid on getting the $3,300,000,000 Public works programme under way. More important than the addition of millions in greenbacks to an existing stock of idle currency is the need that this programme should really get up steam. It is the step of major consequence to both storekeepers and farmers. Without denying the evident benefits of being unhitched from gold, it is possible to over-emphasize the value of currency inflation. When the Southern cotton planters demanded that inflation be employed until cotton was raised to the unreasonable price of 20 cents a pound, they departed from its only justification, namely, reducing the dollar to a normal buying power. And when they urge the Government to go into the discredited business of buying up crops to be held off the market, they forget that the fundamental support for the price of cotton is in the number of cotton garments people buy. The Great Experiment has still to prove itself in supplying a large volume of new purchasing power.

NOTES OF THE DAY

"DOLES" FOR AMERICA?

The announcement that President Roosevelt is taking advantage of the presence in the United States of Sir William Beveridge to employ him as adviser on unemployment insurance suggests that Washington has been more deeply impressed by the British system than has hitherto been officially admitted. Sir William was, for many years, closely connected with the development of measures for dealing with unemployment problems in England. He was a member of the Central Body on Unemployment before the war, was the first Director of the Labour Exchanges, which perform an important function in connection with unemployment insurance, and was Secretary in charge of the Employment Department of the Board of Trade. He is an acknowledged authority on economic and labour problems.

CHANGES AHEAD

One of the most perplexing things about living in 1933 is that the world's leading thinkers seem quite unable to make up their minds whether we are approaching a sunset or a dawn. If you study all the books, magazine articles and interviews in which thoughtful men try to appraise the present situation you will find two schools of thought represented. According to one school, the end of all things is at hand, and a great darkness is about to settle down over the waters. Capitalism is done for, western civilisation is about to collapse and the world is about to enter a new dark age.

BIRTH-PANGS

According to the other school, our woes are just the birth pangs of a new order of life. We are going through a great change, and paying for it in misery and confusion, but when the change is finished things will be almost infinitely better than they were before. There will be more freedom and less poverty, more peace and less war, more happiness and less desperate uncertainty. Each group of prognosticators can assemble a multitude of facts and a string of clever arguments to prove its case. You can get damnation with your morning coffee and salvation with your afternoon cigarette if you like, and each forecast will seem to be absolutely fool-proof.

A TURNING POINT

This, however conflicting it may be, seems to indicate one thing inauspiciously; that we have reached one of history's great turning points, and that no matter what the future brings it will be something vastly different from past experiences. For better or for worse, we have come upon a time of change, and those who do not like change seem to be very much out of luck. Yet it is also quite possible that the seers are mostly wrong. The disasters they foresee may not be quite as bad as they expect; the improvements they leave us only a little bit better off than we were. The important thing is that we accept the fact that some sort of change is coming and prepare our minds for it.

BREAKING BARRIERS

When the heaving shoulders of the antarctic seas lift the bows of the Pacific Fir and the Bear of Oakland, and Lullie America beckons from the rim of the great ice barrier that rings the South Polar regions, the Byrd Antarctic Expedition will be staging its drama of conquest before crowded galleries—an achievement hitherto unknown.

When the long antarctic night shuts down, with the temperature sinking to 70 to 90 degrees below zero and winds of unbelievable velocity whipping blizzard banners over the stark wastes, the members of the expedition will speak in normal tones and be heard in the living rooms of Main Street. For weekly broadcasts are to be made from Little America throughout the stay of the world.

Only yesterday, when an Amundsen, Scott or Peary left his base and plunged forward in a dash toward either pole, the silence swallowed him. Friend and interested follower waited long months for the word that would proclaim the expedition safe, its goal achieved or villain attempt recorded. To-day this suspense is removed. The voice of the adventurer reaches to the farthest corner of the earth.

SHOCKS FOR GOOD-LOOKING MEN

By PETER FORREST

THE youngest woman-for-her-age I know smiled at me over the rim of her cocktail glass.

"The first time I married," said she, "I was in love with a man's looks; the second time, I fell in love with a man's character. The first marriage lasted two years; the second has lasted sixteen, and I'm still telling myself I am a lucky woman."

She is. To know that one has only to look at her—trim, lithe, lively, at 43 looking no more than 30. Her husband is one of the world's nicest men. Rodin would have liked to sculpt him. He has a face like that.

Curious, how many pretty women prefer men against whom they stand out like orchids against dark, rough oaks. Strange, the lure of the rough-hewn visage, the symmetrical countenance. Sad (for them) the slump in the matinee-idol type of man.

In the present week I have had to entertain girls of debutante age on a visit to town from the country. Each time I suggested shows adorned by highly decorative lending men, and each time I was turned down.

"Let's see Cedric Hardwicke," said one. "Oh, I've got a crush on Charles Laughton," confided another.

TALKIE FACTORIES PERPLEXED.

I am told that this sort of thing is causing some perplexity and trouble in the world of the talkie factories.

Women prefer Lionel Barrymore—sturdy, unhandsome, but so interesting—to his brother John, whose profile is famous; and Wallace Beery has cut out John Gilbert, although the one looks like Caliban and the other like the Fairy Prince.

Clark Gable? It is a nice point whether he is handsome. He had to play brutal crook roles in his early phase because the film manufacturers thought he looked that way.

It was only after about a million women had made it clear that they found this Dempsey-looking man more attractive than the wavy-haired and handsome hero, in a film in which both appeared, that his employers decided they had made a mistake, and had better give the great feminine public what it wanted.

One may surmise a new fashion in romantic men. But a man's mere looks seldom have meant as much to a woman as a woman's have to a man.

Consider Casanova, a gentleman who had more successes with women than almost any man since Julius Caesar, whose love exploits were a standing joke among his soldiers. Casanova was an ugly man. Julius, who had the additional disadvantage of being bald, was no beauty, either.

The early photographs of Gabriele D'Annunzio, "Prince of the Snowy Mountain," show an unlovely young man, whose nose is too long and whose mouth is too loose. From that stage he developed into the Gabriele of today, who bears a singular facious resemblance to a tortoise.

Yet this quite unattractive-looking man, poor and obscure (but with what vital force!), began his devastating career as a lover by inspiring a duchess's daughter with a passion so profound that she ran away with him.

Thereafter, his list of conquests is dazzling. A princess... Eleanor Duso... Probably he cannot recall all the women who have loved him.

It is not that they idealised him through his books and were repulsed when they saw him (as sometimes happens with authors, and women). On the contrary.

A GRAVE ERROR.

D'Annunzio did not suffer from an inferiority complex at any time. Neither did Landru, a really frightful-looking male, yet apparently irresistible to some women.

But in my experience the average non-good-looking male is inclined to bow himself from the presence of a pretty girl, or a beautiful woman, as soon as a handsome rival appears.

A grave error. Looks do count with some women. One recalls that Josephine risked her whole future with Napoleon (whose visage was too severe ever to be considered attractive by women, and who quickly lost his slim figure) for a stupid but handsome Guardee as frivolous as herself.

But most beauties with minds of their own consider that looks are far down in the list of the qualities which attract them in a man. Captain Goering's wife was a stunning beauty. Stressemann had a gargoye face. He won a woman above him in the social scale, lovely, witty, charming—and devoted, to him.

No one would have conceded good looks to the red-bearded D. H. Lawrence. Yet a baron's daughter left her upper-middle-class husband, three children, and a happy home for love of him, and became Mrs. Lawrence and shared his peculiarly uncomfortable but no doubt exciting life.

The man Marlene Dietrich is married to has quite a "homely" face. So has Mr. Rosson. Mrs. Rosson, otherwise Jean Harlow, is a girl so ravishingly beautiful, so celebrated, feted, sought after, and high-salaried, that the average man might well ask himself upon meeting her whether she would condescend to realise that he existed.

Mrs. Rosson pays public tribute to her husband's prowess at golf and with a camera. She is not fully silent upon the subject of his profile.

The world's greatest beauty is Greta Garbo. She has one of those marvellous faces which date an age. When our civilisation perishes her legend will survive—like Cleopatra's, like Helen's. Only one man is known ever to have meant anything to her. He was Stiller, her producer. Stiller was a heavy-faced man cast in a rugged mould, whose best friend would not have granted him ten marks out of a possible hundred in a male beauty contest.

If Garbo ever falls in love, I shall be surprised if the man turns out to be possessed of a tithe of the good looks of, say, Sir Percy Laurie, or Mr. Herbert Marshall, or Lord D'Abernon when young.

Recalling, then, that a Caesar can captivate a Cleopatra, a D'Annunzio fascinate a Duse, and a Rosson run off with a Harlow, and that a Duse proffered Owen Nares, may prefer a Leslie Henson, there seems to be more hope for the plain man than he is accustomed to believe when he (Continued on Page 9.)

The Very Idea!

By Eddle "Fanny" Kelly

EVERYBODY loves a garden. We have even heard singers thanking God for one over the radio.

With autumn in the offing, it's time all of us who live on ground floors went in for a spot of flower potting.

First of all, what you want is a good friable loam. Fried loam is the best for most plants, earth or dirt being the next choice.

Antirrhinum—antirrh—antirrh—those things you see growing on the Castle Peak road, are very easy to grow and need very little attention. Personally we are keen on them, but our wife doesn't like them because they don't give us enough to do on Saturday afternoons.

Our favourite flower is the self-raising variety, which is usually done up in 2 lb. packets. Scores are delicious when made with these.

This is the time of the year when vines should be planted. Vines are decorative, especially the flowering ones. Two of the best varieties are the Ellsworth Vines and the Port Vines. The latter variety, however, does not last long.

Carnations will grow well if they are given plenty of bone dust. The bones should be kept in a dusty place and the dust removed once a fortnight and stored.

For the kitchen garden, gherkins and pickled onions are excellent. They should be planted in rows, taking care to keep the bottles upright and tightly corked.

Introduce the sporting element to your garden for variety and interest. Select a fairly healthy-looking plant after they have started to grow, and lay the odds on it. With our plants the odds are fairly constant. Even money a pumpkin, two to one a watermelon, 15 to 1 a cucumber, and so on. Of course, it all depends on the seed.

Apart from the sporting side of gardening, consider the exercise you get. And the results!

You can sit back all covered with blisters and dirty finger nails and gaze at a riot of flowers. In Ireland, where our mother comes from, they have the riot first and the flowers after, but the keen gardener can have both at once.

One thing you've got to watch in Hongkong is the insects. We were only reading in the Telegraph a few weeks ago about a lot of flowers that were infested with weevils. They had to throw them all away.

We are now going out to buy a bunch of poppies for the girl friend. Auf wiedersehen (German)

THE CAT'S WHISKERS

Our cat's had kittens. We don't mind our cat having kittens once in a while but it's getting too hot these days, what with the depression, and the price of meat and milk. We told our cat about it.

We said: Muzzy (our cat), this must stop at once. We may be fond of cats, but seven in one house is a little too much. Besides, there may be seven more by Christmas.

Muzzy said: Please don't be indelicate.

We said: No offence meant. But please do try and remember that moderation in all things.

She said: There is no moderation in love. When you give you give all.

We said: This is not the proper place to discuss such matters. We merely wish to say that if it occurs again we shall turn you out on the street, never to darken our door again.

She said: Cruel and heartless though the world may be, I am ready to endure any hardship—nay, even death itself—for the sake of the one I love.

At that moment The Old She Loves, or The Cause of All the Trouble, or The Disobedient Ginger Cat That Lives Next Door, leapt from behind a chair through a window, breaking a whiskey decanter as it passed on its way to another appointment.

"Don't blame me, mister; I don't write all this stuff."

The holders of the ticket, 24 Chinese employees of the Kichow-Tsainan Railway, were considering acceptance of the offer but, learning from Reuter that Dastur, the horse drawn by them, was one of the favourites, are now reconsidering the matter.—Reuter.

TWO WITNESSES COMMENDED

MAKE SMART ARREST OF BAG SNATCHER

"I would like to commend the action of the two witnesses in arresting this defendant. I think they did very well indeed to catch up to him. It would do well for many more people to follow their example."

With these remarks Mr. Schofield in the Central Magistracy this morning congratulated Mr. A.M. Omar, the I.R.C. lawn bowler, and his cousin, Mr. A.K. Omar, for their arrest of a thief in Wan-chai on Sunday night.

The defendant, Wong Hoi-sing, an unemployed, from Shanghai, was charged with stealing a hand-bag, containing $19.70 in money, a fountain pen, a gold pencil, to the total value of $94.70, the property of Miss Doris Tsang, 225, Gloucester Road, in Canal Road West.

Defendant stated the complainant dropped her bag as she alighted from the tram. He ran away and was accused of stealing.

"SLAPPED HER FACE"

Det-Sub-Inspector Nolloth said the two witnesses saw him running away with the bag. Defendant slapped Miss Tsang on the face when taking the bag. The complainant had just alighted from a tram when the defendant came up from behind, snatched the bag and bolted. He was chased by Mr. A.K. Omar, followed by Mr. A.M. Omar. The former caught accused but he broke loose and was eventually caught by Mr. A.M. Omar. The bag was in the defendant's possession.

The magistrate: "It is a more serious case than the ordinary one. Six months' hard labour and to be sent back to Shanghai."

S.I. Nolloth: "I would like to bring to your Worship's notice the public-spirited action of the two witnesses who caught him."

AMITY TREATY SUGGESTED

Manchoukuo Open-Door Policy a Fact

JAPAN & AMERICA

Tokyo, Oct. 19. Mr. Koki Hirota, Foreign Minister, yesterday received a personal and minute report of what happened at the World Economic Conference from Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, Japan's chief delegate. The meeting lasted more than two hours.

It was reliably learned that Viscount Ishii simultaneously conveyed the nature of conversations with President Roosevelt in connection with tangible ways to establish better relations between Japan and America. He is understood to have reported:

(1) That President Roosevelt personally agreed to the conclusion of an American-Japanese peace and amity treaty as he perceived the necessity of continued co-operation in seeking harmonious diplomatic relations between the two nations.

(2) That control of national sentiments is most essential for the smooth operation of American-Japanese relations.

(3) That the exchange of influential and frank civil representatives in order to bring out genuine beliefs and feelings in Japan and America will serve greatly to strengthen ties between the two nations, and

(4) That the Tokyo Government should aid American investors in order to let them know that the "open-door" policy in Manchoukuo is a fact. Mr. Hirota, who is believed to have similar views, will shortly meet Mr. Joseph Grew, the United States Ambassador to Tokyo, and seek to materialise these principles, it is said.

It is said the necessity of exchanging influential persons with America, the Government is reported to have selected as its emissaries Prince Fumimaro Konoe, Baron Kijuro Shidehara, former Foreign Minister, Mr. J. Sakurai, Mr. Rikido Fujisawa, Mr. Toyohiko Kagawa, the writer, Mr. Kenkichi Kogami, former president of the N.Y.K. Line, Mr. S. Kodama, former president of the Bank of Japan.—United Press.

CHINA FINANCE PROBLEMS

T. V. SOONG SEEKING ECONOMIES

Shanghai, Oct. 23. Interviewed by Reuter to-day, Mr. T. V. Soong, Minister of Finance, admitted that the Ministry is negotiating for a new loan with local bankers in view of the financial difficulties the Government is encountering, particularly due to the anti-Red campaign in Kiangsi, in which 200,000 men are participating.

Mr. Soong expressed the hope, however, that the Government will find a way to solve the present stringency, with reference to the financial situation in North China, Mr. T. V. Soong said that the Government is now exerting every effort to solve the problem. As a first step expenditure will be reduced to $4,500,000 and State revenue to be remitted to the Government as usual. At present the Government is remitting $1,000,000 to North China each month to meet the deficit as a temporary measure. Mr. Soong denied the report that the Government is appointing Generals Fang Chen-wu and Chi Hung-chang to certain posts by sending them abroad, since the Government is unable to encourage rebels.—Reuter.

BARTER IN COTTON

PIECE-GOODS FOR RAW COTTON

New Delhi, Oct. 23.

For the first time since the beginning of the cotton negotiations between Japan and India, a spirit of optimism has been aroused.

The more hopeful atmosphere is the consequence of long talks which resulted in the Japanese approving of the principle of a barter scheme.

The details have not yet been worked out, but the Indian Government, it is understood, has offered to permit a specified amount of Japanese piece-goods imports against the Japanese purchase of a specified quantity of Indian raw cotton.

COUNTER-PROPOSALS

India, it is reported, proposes three hundred million yards of cloth against thirteen hundred thousand bales of cotton.

On her part, Japan suggests that India should take last year's figure of Japanese piece-goods imports into India, namely, 678,000,000 yards.

As regards other industries, India has offered to place Japan on an equal footing with other countries by the adoption of a specific duty which however would be increased in the case of a further depreciation of the yen.—Reuter.

KIANGSI DRIVE AGAINST REDS

CHIANG'S OFFER TO DESERTERS

Nanking, Oct. 23. Advice from Nanchang claim continuous progress by Government troops in the drive against Communists.

General Chiang Kai-shek in a manifesto to the Red Army guarantees safety and liberal treatment to any Communist deserters.

General Chiang suggests three ways in which any Communists can surrender to the Government troops, namely: firstly, when ordered to attack, any Communists intending to surrender may pretend to be advancing rapidly and hold up their rifles when visible from the Government lines; secondly, when ordered to withdraw, any Red soldier may pretend illness with the intention to lag behind, in order to surrender, and thirdly, when lagging behind, they should snipe from vantage points to prevent the return of Communists to capture them.—Reuter.

STOCK MARKETS' GOOD TONE

GOVERNMENT STOCKS HOLD FIRM

London, Oct. 23. The stock markets to-day began a new account with a good tone which was maintained until the close despite uncertain international factors which held business in check.

British Government stocks were firm, with war loan 3½ per cent at 101½. Home Ralls were steady, while foreign Ralls improved. Kaffirs finished higher on the day, and international, especially nickels, closed firmer.—British Wireless.

The Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Captain Anthony Eden, will go in his stead.—British Wireless.

BRITISH DEBT TO U.S.

UNREST HAMPERING DELEGATES

EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

Washington, Oct. 18.

World financial and political disorders are hampering the British negotiators in their efforts to obtain a reduction of their $4,500,000,000 war debt to the United States, according to impartial observers here.

Unrest, uncertainties and the nationalistic spirit prevailing in many parts of the world are making it difficult for the British spokesman, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, to offer the United States any substantial "bargain" in return for debt favours, it is said. Some such inducement is regarded as essential to "sell" to the United States Congress and public the idea of giving up war debt receipts.

French, British and other Allied taxpayers were "sold" on, or persuaded to abandon German reparations largely on the theory that they would in turn be relieved of payments to the United States, but it is pointed out here that the United States taxpayer has no one to whom he can pass on the burden for costs of the war, which will fall on his shoulders if the debt receipts are sharply reduced.

ARMAMENT ISSUE

Disarmament appeared at one time as something the Allied debtors could offer as a "bargain" to the United States for debt reduction. Prominent Americans said it would be worth while to slash the debts if Europe would turn some of its vast armament expenditures into peaceful channels, contributing to tranquillity and an atmosphere in which business would revive.

But the dismal failure of the prolonged disarmament efforts, culminating in Germany's withdrawal from the Geneva conference has discouraged belief in informed circles here that Europe can offer anything in this line at present.

Return to the gold standard, bringing stabilisation of currencies, was a possible "bargain" Great Britain could offer the United States until recently, but after adoption of the intensive N.R.A. domestic programme of recovery, President Roosevelt appeared unwilling to stabilise until conditions at home show decided improvement.

Tariff reductions were a third possible inducement for debt cuts with which the United States once flirted, but the Ottawa Agreements, new British tariffs, continental quotas and barriers obstructed progress and dimmed hopes along this line.

A COMMODITY DOLLAR

Finally, the "gentlemen's agreement" between France and Great Britain, resulting from the Lausanne Conference, complicates the debt negotiations. By this, Great Britain may not be free to deal with the United States in a way which would give her lone pre-eminence. The fact that Great Britain holds obligations of France, Italy and other Allies hampers her free bargaining position with the United States, also. She is in the position of having to look two ways to see the possible results of any contemplated step.

President Roosevelt's plan for a "commodity dollar," a currency changed from time to time to keep its purchasing power uniform, may offer common ground in bargaining with the British, but no European nation has shown sympathy with the idea and its technical difficulties on an international scale are regarded as formidable.

The only alternative to a "bargain" from Great Britain, in the view of many observers following the negotiations here between Sir Frederick Leith-Ross and the U.S. Under Secretary of Treasury, Mr. Dean Acheson, is an educational campaign to try to convince United States citizens that they cannot have both war debts payments and foreign markets. The Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Henry Wallace, told farmers this recently, but it was an "isolated" declaration which the Administration apparently chose to drop, perhaps in view of the fact that the negotiations were imminent at the time.—United Press.

KID CHOCOLATE AND WATSON

CHAMPIONSHIP
FIGHT DOUBTFUL

THE POSITION

"In spite of all that has been
said, I am not expecting Kid
Chocolate to defend his world
championship against Seaman
Watson."

Thus Mr. John Mortimer, guide,
philosopher and friend to the English title-holder. In a letter to
Mr. Geoffrey Simpson, the Daily
Mail boxing correspondent says.

But I can understand Mr. Mor-timer's doubts in the matter. He is convinced that the brown-skinned
man from Cuba does not want
Watson at any price.

He went to Paris to clinch the
match, guaranteed Chocolate
$4,000, and got "No" for an answer.

Watson, we must remember, lost
a hairline verdict to Chocolate
when he made his first bid for the
world title in New York.

GROTESQUE

So that as it may, I know that Chocolate has signed to fight for
Mr. Jeff Dickson at the Albert Hall
on October 30. Perhaps he will settle the point about his title
after he has seen his prospective opponent in action in the same
arena.

For Chocolate will be in a ringside seat when Watson stakes his British championship against Tommy Rogers, his challenger
from Willenhall.

AUSTRALIAN CRICKET IN DANGER

Poaching By Lancashire League Warning

A prediction of trouble ahead
for Australian cricket, unless conditions for Test and promising players are made more attractive,
is made by A. A. Malley, the former Test player, writing in the Sydney Sun.

"The poaching of Australian
cricketers by Lancashire League
clubs will continue until conditions
more favourable to cricketers provide here," says Malley, who adds:
"Australian cricket would get a bad jolt if, say, Bradman and O'Reilly accepted Lancashire
League offers."

Malley suggests that if a Test player's allowances for the tour in England were increased from £500
to £1,000, it would not seriously
affect his amateur status, "since £500 for the trip is far above the amount allowed under the amateur
constitution."

EMPIRE TOURNAMENT.

While on the subject of over-seas
cricketers joining the Lancashire
League, Malley says there might soon be sufficient Empire cricketers
in England in 1935 to play an Empire tournament without calling
in outside assistance.

"The Lancashire League," he says, "is becoming so popular that
rules, employ many more first-class
Dominion players."

The suggested Empire cricket tournament might be acceptable to
most of the other countries, but Australia, he says, who expect an English team in 1936-37, "would not see much profit which we expect from the gates of an English team's

LEAGUE CRICKET

I.R.C. TEAM FOR THE OPENING GAME

The following have been selected to play for the Indian R. C.
2nd XI in a League Cricket match against Club de Recreio on Saturday, October 28, at King's Park:
K. Nazaria (Capt.), A. R. Abbas,
M. R. Abbas, M. el Arouli, A. H.
Bakar, H. T. M. Barma, A. K.
Minu, M. P. Madar, A. R. Sufiad,
A. S. Sufiad and A. N. Other.

Holed-in-One Twice and Then Lost

CHAMPIONSHIP
GOLF RECORD

To hole two too shots, and yet suffer defeat in a championship
final was the bitter experience of
Eric Fiddian, the 23-years-old
Stourbridge golfer last month.

He was playing in the Irish
Open Amateur Championship on
the Royal County Down links,
near Belfast, and the man who vanquished him—by 3 and 2—was
Jack McLean, the 22-years-old
Glasgow player, who has now won
the Scottish and Irish Amateur Championships twice in succession.

Fiddian was as surprised as any spectator when, after McLean had played a fine shot close to the seventh hole (128yds.), he saw his own masher nibble shot
pitch about a foot short of the hole
and finish up resting against the
pin. He lifted the flag and the ball dropped for a hole in one.

That made him all-square with McLean, but the latter recovered
quickly from the shock and finished
the first round two up.

SEEMED BEWILDERED.

The situation became desperate
for Fiddian when, at the 14th hole
in the second round, he was 3 down
with 5 to play.

It was here that he accomplished his second feat of
jugglery by holing an iron shot
over a distance of 205 yards.

Fiddian seemed bewildered,
but McLean took it as a good
joke and smilingly remarked,
"Good shot!"

"What can you say when such a thing happens?" said Fiddian
after the match. "I knew it was a good shot, but, of course, it was good luck as well."

It is a record to hole two shots in a championship match,
but several golfers have holed two
tee shots during one round. J. H.
Bussan, the Formby professional,
accomplished this feat when he was only 16, while a Canadian professional, Alex Duthrie, holed two successive holes in one stroke
each on the Vancouver Club course
in 1911.

Two women playing at St.
Augustine's, Ramsgate, in 1925,
actually halved a hole in one.

RINKS & GREENS SELECTED

Arrangements are now completed
for the competition for the Aitkenhead Shield which will be played at Happy Valley on Saturday afternoon.

The draw took place yesterday
afternoon at the Civil Service C.C.
and results are printed below. Provided the weather is favourable, some interesting play should be seen, as some of the rinks are very evenly
balanced.

Players will assemble at the Police
R.C. at 2.15 p.m. and play will commence at 2.30 p.m. sharp. Players will arrange for their woods to be on their respective rinks before play
commences.

It is the intention of the Hongkong
Lawn Bowls Association to have a
group photograph taken at 2.20 p.m.
for the purpose of sending it to Mr.
R. C. Aitkenhead, the donor of the Shield, as a memento of the occasion,
together with a description of the
afternoon's game.

Following the game, a presentation of all the Association's prizes won during the season will be made by Mrs. Russell, wife of Mr. J. Russell,
President of the Association, at the Police R.C. at 5.30 p.m.

Entertainment during the afternoon
will be in the hands of Mr. R. P.
Phillips, who will be master of ceremonies for the occasion, with the aid
of willing helpers from other clubs.

Players are particularly requested
to be prompt.
Tea will be served at all clubs to ladies attending the game. No stoppages will be held during the game,
but tea will be served to the players
as usual.

The Aitkenhead Shield will be presented to the club in the highest position of the League and upon the completion of the afternoon's play to the winning team with the highest aggregate number of shots.
Captains of the two teams are: W.
L. Rapley (Kowloon) and A. W.

Green Tennis Shorts Now

SKIRTS "BY REQUEST"
AT TOURNAMENT

Since Mrs. Fearnley Whitting-
stall set the fashion, women lawn-
tennis players have worn shorts at almost every Home tournament.

Shorts of a vivid green were
seen at the Welsh covered championships at Llandudno, and no
one was shocked. But shorts
were not seen at the recent tournament at Sidmouth.

At the time it was wondered
why. Later it was learnt that shorts were forbidden by the committee.

They said that while they did not object to shorts they were afraid that the new dress might shock their old patrons, to whom they had sold a lot of seats. They therefore "requested" that skirts
should be worn.

The request was backed by a voiced threat, because a player at Sidmouth asserted that the referee, Mr. Hamilton Price, let it
be known that if a woman
appeared in shorts, she would not be allowed to play on the centre court over though she were a star.

HOME CLUB

London.

Allan Dailey, who played for Scotland in this year's professional international match
and who rose to fame by his amazing victory in the Roehampton tournament in April, has been appointed playing-professional to the Addington Golf Club, Croydon.

Dailey is at present attached to
the Bradley Hall Club, Halifax.
He will begin his new duties on November 1, in partnership with
W. L. Ritchie, the Addington professional.

The appointment of this brilliant Yorkshireman, 25 years of
age, is regarded as foreshadow-
ing a new movement in golf.

CLUB COMPLAINT.

It has long been the complaint
of members of golf clubs that their professional, if a distinguished tournament player, is frequently away playing in tournaments. On the other hand professionals have explained their absence by Americans by pointing out that their duties, which include club-making
and teaching, permit of very little time for attention to practise play.

Both sections have justification
for complaints which may be disposed of if the example of Addington is followed.

Dailey will not supersede
Ritchie, for many years, but will
be associate "playing professional."
It is the intention of the club
authorities to give Dailey every opportunity of playing with the low handicap members. These would gain valuable experience during play with a powerful
professional golfer.

SEASON'S BEST GAME

RANGERS

AT Highbury

In the best match I have seen
this season Glasgow Rangers defended the Arsenal at Highbury
by three goals to one, writes F. M.
Carruthers of the Daily Mail.

In these tests between the champions of the two countries Scottish football has not only been triumphant but superior. Although this was not so marked as in Glasgow
a week previous owing to the improvement of the home side, it was again definite.

If the Rangers truly represent Scottish football, we must change
our view of it.

Not only did they work tremendously hard, refusing to regard the match as an exhibition, but they played in more open and first-time
style than the Arsenal. Indeed,
the way in which they made use of the whole field by exploiting the
cross-pass was the outstanding feature of the game.

ALWAYS TRYING.

The Arsenal fought just as doggedly. Even when they were two goals down they refused to give up trying to pull the match out of the fire.

There was cleverness in their attacks, but they were inclined to be cramped in the middle, and against such fine covering it was hard to
break through.

The Arsenal started well, getting
the first goal, Lambert picking up
a down-the-middle pass by James.
The centre forward obtained an
even better goal, but he was given offside by the referee, who was
many yards in the rear.

Rangers started scoring as the result of a brilliant shot by Marshall. Fleming who had gone to centre forward in place of Smith
who had hurt a leg, headed a
second from a corner, and the same player put on the third with a shot which Moss should have saved.

The understanding and position-
al play of the Scottish forwards
and the way in which they put
the ball back to bring the halves
into the attack were splendid. For a long time in the second half the Arsenal defenders were sorely pressed.

But the match was useful from
the Arsenal's standpoint in showing that they may safely play Birkett at outside right in the absence of Hulme.

I have become a custom to say
that Bastin was the best of the Arsenal forwards. This cannot be over-emphasised on this occasion. He was always dangerous.

Arsenal.—Moss; Male, Haggood;
Hills, Roberts, John; Birkett,
Bowden, Lambert, James, Bastin.
Rangers.—Dawson; Gray, Mc-Donald; Melkielejohn, Simpson,
Brown; Archibald, Marshall,
Smith, M'Phail, Fleming.

FAR EASTERN OLYMPICS

Programme For 10th Meeting

The executive committee
of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation have listed the invitation event to be included in the Tenth Far Eastern Championships to be held in Manila next year.

Fancy diving, women's swimming, water polo and women's volleyball are included in the programme of invitation events. In women's volleyball a provision was
made which would disqualify countries other than regular members
of the Far Eastern Athletic Association from participating.

INVITATION EVENTS.

The events agreed upon for the invitation women's swimming are:
200 metre relay, 50 metre free
style, 100 metre free style, 100
metre back stroke and 200 metre
breast stroke.

The P.A.A.F. executive committee also favoured including women's tennis in the official
programme of sports for the Tenth Far Eastern Championship Games.
The proposal will be submitted to
both Japan and China.

The committee further decided that women's tennis be conducted
on the Davis Cup System with the
be decided in two best out of three.

Jubilantly bounding over the net, Fred J. Perry, English tennis ace, rushes to shake the hand of his vanquished fellow Britisher, Jack Crawford of Australia, at the end of their final-round match in the U. S. tennis singles championship at Forest Hills, N. Y. The score was 6-3, 11-13, 4-6, 6-0.

HONGKONG WINS.

Shanghai Defeated At Soccer.

EXHIBITION MATCH.

Shanghai, Oct. 23. The Hongkong Soccer Team, which was eliminated by Shanghai in the National Sports meeting at Nanking, fully redeemed itself yesterday afternoon when, before a huge crowd of spectators, it defeated Shanghai in an exhibition match by the odd goal in three. Mr. Wu Tsching, mayor of Shanghai, kicked off.

Shanghai was without the service of Chow, their star goalie, whose place was taken by Lu Chung-yen. When Hongkong was hot on the attack, Lu, in an attempt to clear, kicked the ball against Hsu, the Shanghai left back. The ball rebounded into the net. Before the interval, Hongkong established a further lead.

Shanghai had more of the game in the second half, but the Hongkong defence was sound. At last, the northers reduced the lead when Li Yee-sen scored from a penalty kick.

At the end of the match, Mr. Wu Tsching presented the Hongkong team with a large silver cup.

"WE NEVER WORRY"

SAYS MR. BALDWIN

Mr. Stanley Baldwin in a broadcast introduction to a series of talks on national character, said: "No people grumble more than we do."

"I do myself every day, but though I grumble I do not worry, but keep cheerful."

It is exactly the same with all English people. As a nation we grumble, we never worry.

"The more difficult the times the more cheerful we become."

AND WE CAN LAUGH.

"We can laugh at ourselves."

"Laughter is one of the best things God has given us and with hearty laughter neither malice nor indecency can exist."

"Kindliness, sympathy with the underdog, love of home, are not these all the characteristics of the ordinary Englishman we all know?"

"He is a strong individualist in this, that he does not want to mould himself into any common mould to be like everyone else."

"He likes to develop his own individuality and yet he can combine for service."

"Let us hold on to what we are. Let us not try to be like anybody else."

"We can respect the fine qualities of other countries, but let us keep our own."

THESE TWO THOUSAND SINGLE MEN

By GERALD BLACK.

Two thousand bachelor apartments have lately been equipped and furnished by as many eager young Freshmen of Oxford and Cambridge.

Whatever ideas parents may hold and even impose in the matter of furnishing these rooms it will not be long before their occupants discover that the chief necessities are not, after all, the perfectly toning curtains and cushions or the elegantly framed photographs with which everyone starts undergraduate life.

These fall eventually into a gently tolerated secondary position. Nor by any means of first importance are those various articles which the local shops attempt to sell to the unwary, such as triangular flags in college colours or handsome crests on shields or fire screens.

These are the only three essentials—a portable gramophone, a pipe-rack, a never-failing coffee-pot; the wise Freshman always puts these first.

And if during the year an owner in the bumping races can be hung above, or a college cap perched on the corner of a team photo, the ensemble thereby becomes faultlessly complete in essentials.

For the rest, the appointments may be, and generally are, non-descript. This is for several reasons. The majority of the new bachelors will not go into bare rooms. Nearly every college at either university is so full that two years out of three have to be spent by the undergraduate in lodgings in the town.

BACHELORS ALL.

At Cambridge it is the custom practically throughout for these to be the first two, after which the final year is enjoyed in college.

At Oxford the opposite plan prevails.

Both systems have their advantages and disadvantages, but from the point of view of furnishing they make little difference.

At Cambridge, the Freshman has the accumulations of his landlady to contend with, while at Oxford he has those of his predecessors, for most newcomers agree to take over the more stable furniture for which the outgoing man has ceased to have use.

So it happens that the backbone of the furnishing problem has been broken for most of these 2,000 bachelors before they and those anxious to advise them have any choice.

This is all to the good. It prevents dissipation of energy and allows for concentration on that essential domestic triad—gramophone, pipe-rack, and coffee-pot.

LADIES HOCKEY.

TWO GOALS TO ONE.

In a friendly hockey match, the Central British Association Ladies beat the Central British School Girls by two goals to one at King's Park, yesterday afternoon.

The Central British ladies' team got their goals in the first half through Miss Doris Hunt, and in the second half Miss H. Knill scored for the girls.

The C. B. A. ladies' forward line were inclined to bunch too much, while the C. B. S. girls kept to their positions fairly well. Miss Knill lead them well, but was marked by Miss Davis, the C. B. A. centre half.

Owing to the late start the match was played 25 minutes in the first half and 20 minutes in the second.

What a Doctor Says About Neuralgia.

"At this time of year, when neuralgia and similar troubles are common, the following dictum of a physician who for a number of years prior to his retirement was well known in Shanghai and other parts of the Far East is of special interest."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills recommended themselves as just such a tonic. The doctor specifies, designed to build up rich blood and strong nerves. They have been proven time and again helpful in minimizing the recurrence of neuralgia attacks, also as a curative remedy for rheumatic pains, sciatica, lumbago, nervous debility, as well as for anaemia and other ailments due to an impoverished condition of the blood or run-down nerves. Obtainable from chemists everywhere.

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEYESTERDAY'S MARKET FIRM

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was firm yesterday. Business done was 2,210,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: Stocks soared from one to as much as fourteen points with Homestake—a gold stock—advancing forty points due to traders' preliminary approval of President Roosevelt's monetary policy. There are many interpretations but traders jumped to the conclusion that it meant indirect inflation especially since commodities gained and the dollar declined. Return of dollar wheat predicted. Our New York Office Cable (This morning): Stocks: Stocks should be bought on recessions in view of President Roosevelt's promise of higher commodity prices. Wheat: The advance is well maintained. Government buying of futures continues. Mills are buying. Higher prices are forecast. Cotton: The President's speech produced no new market factor and has evidently failed to avert the Western farm strike and discourages advocates of fixed dollar value. Imports are coming in that there is agitation against Southern delivery and the present form of New York cotton contracts as well as rumours of an increase in processing tax on cotton and grain are reflected in the uncertainty and indecision of operators. Silver: The market was firm all day in sympathy with other markets but turned slightly easier at the close on profit-taking. Further developments will depend largely on the course of the U.S. dollar. Cable received at 11:43 p.m. during our Night Service: "President Roosevelt's speech stating that commodity prices will be raised one way or another is having natural bullish effect on markets."

SENTENCE REVISION
URGEDShip's Coolie Allowed
$100 Fine Option

Charged with the theft by bail of $246 from the Lai Wo Cheung wine shop, 258, Hollywood Road, a ship's coolie, Fong Chuen, was sentenced to two months' hard labour by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court last Friday morning. The money was recovered.

Mr. P. H. Sin, this morning made application for a revision of the sentence.

"I feel sure," he said, "that if all the facts were brought before your Worship, this stiff sentence, if I may say so, would not have been passed. The accused is of excellent character and has been employed by the firm for the past ten years, and he has been entrusted with large sums of money before. The proprietor cannot understand why he should have stolen that comparatively small sum of $246. They have since recovered all the money, they have lost nothing and this accused has a wife and a family to support. The complainant firm is willing to take him back and give him his former employment."

"RATHER HONEST."

Lo Lin-nun, the proprietor of the Lai Wo Cheung wine shop, gave evidence of defendant's character, stating he was rather honest during his time with them. Mr. Balfour said he would give the option of a fine.

Mr. Sin applied for a small fine pointing out that the sum of money involved was small.

Detective-Sergeant Allen: I ask for a substantial fine. The defendant is in a position of trust. We were only lucky that we got the money back.

The option of $100 fine was made.

HOW HIGH CAN A HOSE STREAM?

(To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.)

Sir.—A Canton English daily newspaper yesterday carried a description of a test made to a Fire engine of Chinese construction, mounted on a "Morris" chassis. The stream of water from the hose reached a height of thirty feet, which was considered satisfactory, and equal, if not superior, to any Fire engine now in use here. (The Canton Fire Brigade possesses several Fire engines of foreign manufacture). Personally, my garden syringe could better this achievement; but perhaps some of your readers could tell us exactly how high a modern Fire engine can eject water!

PRIME MINISTER MAKES APPEAL TO GERMANY

URGES RETURN TO THE FOLDSTILL HOPING FOR AGREEMENT ON DISARMAMENT

NO BLUSH OR APOLOGY

LONDON, OCT. 23.

NO-ONE IS ASKING GERMANY TO FORFEIT EITHER HER HONOUR OR HER SELF-RESPECT, DECLARED MR. RAMSAY MACDONALD, SPEAKING AT CRAWLEY, SUSSEX, TO-NIGHT, WHEN MAKING AN APPEAL FOR UNDERSTANDING.

He emphasised that disarmament efforts must continue. The British Government, he said, is not going to give up attempts to secure an agreed scheme for the reduction and limitation of armaments.

The Prime Minister, touching lightly on the suggestion by Baron von Neurath that there had been misrepresentation of Germany's position, declared that Britain could look Germany in the face without any blush or apology.

NEIGHBOURLINESS.

The nations of the world, he went on, must develop the spirit of neighbourliness.

There could be no settlement in Europe until every nation can sit around the same table on terms of equality.

Germany, in contribution to that end, must make it possible for other nations to lie alongside her without fear roused in their hearts and without distrust reflected in their arms.

NO RUNNING AWAY.

Britain, he added, will adopt the measures she considers best fitted to get results and "certainly one of those methods is not to run away ourselves."

The Premier denied that Germany's action in leaving the rest of the world to face its difficulties alone was the way to bring peace and to give confidence to Europe. He concluded by expressing the hope that Germany would seize the first opportunity to show that she is pursuing peace and is anxious to return to cooperation with other nations that will not ask her to forfeit either her honour or her self-respect.—Reuter.

HITLER MAKES A STATEMENTInterview With the Daily Mail

In an interview with Herr Hitler, the special correspondent of the Daily Mail in Berlin put to the Chancellor various questions, notably as regards the accusations of bad faith and belicose designs preferred against Germany. In replying, the Chancellor deplored the lack of understanding reigning at present between Great Britain and Germany and expressed his wish for the restoration of the amity which formerly existed. Herr Hitler reiterated the assurances that no one in Germany desires war. "Nearly all the National Socialist leaders," he said, "are veterans, and none of them is willing again to witness the horrors amidst which they lived during the four years of the last war."

Continuing, Herr Hitler affirmed that the development of Nazi Forces in the interior of the Reich was directed solely against interior enemies, and more especially against Communism "which of reaching such proportions of which they have no idea in Great Britain."

RELATIONS WITH FRANCE.

Turning to the question of Germany's relations with France, the Chancellor declared that his country was willing to live on good terms with its neighbour on a basis "acceptable for the country which has a self-respect."

In regard to the question of German secret armaments, Herr Hitler replied, shrugging his shoulders, that it was "childish," adding that if there really existed abroad munition factories controlled by Germany, the whole world would not fail to learn exactly of the armaments thus manufactured, because "any former soldier knows how much space munitions for a single army corps occupy. It is, therefore, incredible that these alleged munition depots of Germany in foreign countries could remain undisturbed." The Chancellor added that he was at a loss to see, if even such arms caches existed, how Germany would be able to take possession of them in case of war. Closing, the interview, Chancellor Hitler affirmed that Germany possesses only "a ridiculous number of small field-guns."

NO WAR FOR COLONIES.

Questioned on the Reich's attitude to the Danzig Corridor problem, the Chancellor replied that though, in fact, Germany insisted on the revision of this point of the Versailles Treaty, she hoped to be able to attain a solution, by means of direct negotiations.

Referring to the Chancellor's affirmation that Germany will not sign any more unequal treaties, the Chancellor was asked, "Does this mean that Germany considers herself freed of her present international obligations on the ground that she was not accorded an equal treatment?" to which he replied that "Although we signed, we will fulfil them so far as we are able to fulfil them."

Questioned as to the over-population of Germany, the Chancellor emphasised that his country aspired for colonies, but this question, like other, could be settled by means of negotiations. He added: "We will never wage war in order to get colonies."

Finally, replying a question regarding the eventual return of Germany to Geneva, the Chancellor affirmed that he could envisage it only on condition that absolute equality of right were accorded Germany.—Havas.

MYSTERY VISIT

Colonel House in Washington

The unannounced appearance of Col. Edward M. House at the State Department last week and an extended conference between him, the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull; the Under-Secretary of State, Mr. William Phillips; and others has given rise to wide speculation. Col. House has often been described as "America's Mystery Man."

Col. House, who is one of the very few non-talking Democrats who ever occupied a high position in the past, has declined to reveal what was said or done in the conference. The Texan seemed also to have cast a spell over the State Department for Mr. Hull and the others likewise declined to comment.

Inasmuch as Col. House never makes calls at Washington for the purpose of chatting about the weather, however, the report spread that he had been summoned there to discuss the political situation caused by Germany's withdrawal from the Disarmament Conference and the League of Nations.

From other sources, it was learned that Col. House knew more than a month ago that, unless the leading powers agreed to a measure of disarmament rather than a promise to restrict further armaments, Germany would not take part in the conference.

TREATY RE EXAMINATION.

The same sources said that they were certain that the conversations concerned the possibility of the United States recommending a re-examination of the provisions of the Versailles treaty and of the obligations imposed thereon upon Germany. Any such procedure, it was said, would be extremely delicate if proposed through ordinary diplomatic channels because the United States did not sign the treaty although she did take part in the negotiations that led to its conclusion. It was thought by some that Col. House, in his own mysterious way, may convey to the Administration the matter.

It would not be a proposal, but rather an expression of the fact that the United States sympathised with those of the former Allies who suggest that such a re-examination could be made, with beneficial results to all concerned.

MODERN
SOUTH SEASCOUPLES' "GRIM FOOD"

Los Angeles, California.

A South Seas island, where a modern Adam and Eve pursue a primitive existence far from civilization, may be ed to visiting scientists, but to Lady Churston it is "most depressing."

Lady Denise Churston of Devon made a tour of the Southern Islands and saw Dr. Charles Ritter and his companion, Frau Koerwin, the German pair who in 1923 exiled themselves on the isolated island of Charles in the Galapagos group to carry out their theories of healthful living in nature.

Lady Churston said that she and her party aboard the yacht "White Shadows" had stopped at the island last year, and seen the couple in their pursuit of the "natural life."

DRESS FOR VISITORS.

"Their shack—it is only one room, built of rough timber—is high and remote, approached only by a long climb, she said. "At the foot of the path is a sign warning visitors to ring the bell and let them know they have callers, for they go about all the time absolutely stark. In honour of visitors, they don garments—the, rough shorts and a shirt, she a loose skirt and blouse."

"The day we arrived they had just had a catastrophe. Pigs had torn down the fences of their garden and uprooted everything. It had happened before and they were sadly upset by it. Then there were the ants. They were in everything. All food had to be kept standing in solutions to keep them out. Frau Koerwin kept house and worked in the garden. They had to work terribly hard, it seemed to me. It's no life for a woman. Never seeing anyone, going to bed frightfully early—oh, most depressing."

The raw food theorist and Frau Koerwin were upholding his theories, Lady Churston observed. They eat fruits and nuts, occasionally a little chicken, with all foods mashed in a pap.

RUBBER TEETH.

Dr. Ritter had pulled all his own teeth and all of hers, she said. "It was one of his theories. I gathered, that man should live to be at least 100, and that the teeth were a cause of shortened lives. However, he had made sets of rubber teeth which they wore."

"Altogether, it seemed to me a most unpleasant life. They have books and what papers are left by visitors, but no music of any kind, and when we arrived to call they told us we were the first visitors in 18 months. Ships rarely stop there. Dr. Ritter collects copra and exchanges it for supplies when a ship does come."

Lady Churston and friends did not accept the Ritter hospitality to the extent of dining with them. "Oh, no," she said, shuddering. "The food looked too grim."

—Reuter.

that the United States sympathised with those of the former Allies who suggest that such a re-examination could be made, with beneficial results to all concerned.

POSSIBLE CONCESSIONS.

It is known that the United States stand with Great Britain in favour of, ultimate equality for Germany but is unwilling to make the equality effective until certain assurances have been given by performance. The possibility of other concessions under the Versailles treaty in exchange for Germany's agreement to wait a reasonable period before obtaining arms equality has been studied here.

Col. House is known to have the confidence of many prominent Germans and it was reported that some of them had informed him in September that the Disarmament Conference would fail if the other powers did not reduce their own armaments.

Col. House is also understood to have been informed by German friends at that time that if the other nations, especially France, did not reduce armaments, Germany would feel entitled to disregard the arms restrictions imposed on her by the Versailles treaty.

The Administration is known to have been informed by German friends at that time that if the other nations, especially France, did not reduce armaments, Germany would feel entitled to disregard the arms restrictions imposed on her by the Versailles treaty.

BOY 10 DAYS IN
EMPTY HOUSEFATHER FINED
SCARED"

A 13-years-old boy, who was left alone in an empty house for ten days gave evidence at Melgate Police Court when his father was fined £15 for neglecting him in a manner likely to cause suffering and injury to his health.

The prosecution was instituted by the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The boy, Kenneth Coates, son of Thomas Coates of Oak Cottage, The Chase, Chipstead, a motor salesman, told the court that on July 30 his father and stepmother said they were going away for a holiday. He was told to sleep in the kitchen, as the other rooms were locked up.

Food was left, and he was told not to make himself ill. The food consisted of cold mutton and tinned meat and fruit, and each day the milkman and baker called.

FOOD POISONING.

Questioned by Mr. Lovell Hewitt, for the defence, Kenneth denied that his father came back the same night and remained at home for two days. He agreed that the food left included lamb, cake, jam, eggs, honey, tea, apples, and oranges, and that he was told to get anything else he wanted at a local shop. His father told him not to eat stuff in tins after they were opened.

P. C. Butterfill said that he found Kenneth ill on a bed in the kitchen on August 9. The boy said he had been eating mutton which his parents had cooked before they went away. The kitchen was very dirty and the boy was scared.

Replying to Mr. Hewitt, P. C. Butterfill said that he knew the boy had been left for a week or a previous occasion.

Dr. F. Sall said that Kenneth was suffering from food poisoning and he ordered him to a hospital.

FATHER'S DEBTS.

Coates told the court that after taking his wife and daughter to Weymouth in a motor-car on July 30 for a holiday he returned the same night, and was also at home on the following night.

He was then ordered away on a tour by his employers, and having no alternative, left Kenneth with sufficient food and instructions. He returned home on August 12. He was several hundred pounds in debt, penniless, and was expecting a mortgage on the house to be foreclosed.

A similar summons against Ethel Mary Coates, the stepmother, was dismissed.

The N.S.P.C.C. were given the custody of Kenneth until a home could be found for him.

MASKED BURGLAR
"KEEP QUIET"

Two "very polite" burglars raided the house of Mr. L. S. Goldstone in St. Cuthbert's-road, Hampstead, N.W., when Miss Diana Rowe, a 19-years-old nursemaid, was alone in the house with Mr. Goldstone's two-years-old son.

Miss Rowe told a reporter that she was in bed when the burglars appeared. "I had answered the telephone shortly before 10 o'clock," she said. "Scarcely had I got back into bed than two men came into the room. One was wearing a mask and flashing a torch upon me. His companion covered his face with his hands."

IN ROOM AN HOUR.

"The masked man said, 'Lie down and keep quiet.' He remained in the room for nearly an hour while the other man ransacked the house. Mr. Goldstone's little son Alan woke up while the man was in the room, but I got him off to sleep again."

"When the men left they told me not to move. I was so frightened that I did not do so until Mrs. Goldstone came home soon after midnight. The burglars had fastened the front door, and she had to get police help before she could get in."

It was found that a small sum of money was missing.

Bed Which Weights Puff
Of AirREVEALS SOURCES
OF UNREST

New Haven, Connecticut.
A bed which can weigh a puff of air is revealing obscure sources of unrest to observers at the Yale University Institute of Human Relations.

The bed records the minute-by-minute loss in weight of persons asleep, or resting quietly while awake. This is called the "insensible loss" due most to loss of water through the breath and evaporation from the skin. Such loss is normal for all persons.

The weight of 150-pound man drops an average of about an ounce and a half an hour. But the bed reveals that this rate of loss is not steady. The fluctuations bring to light hidden emotional disturbances.

The weighing bed is set up in the laboratory of physiological psychology, which is under the direction of Dr. Walter R. Miles, professor of psychology at the Yale School of Medicine. It is a cot, suspended by a chain like a scale pan. The bed will register weight changes of one part in a million.

A TEST.

One of the sleepers was a man troubled with outbreaks of restlessness. He would grasp his head with both hands, rolling from side to side, muttering.

At the beginning of sleep his weight loss was two grams, or about one-fourteenth of a pound, every four or five minutes. But during seizures this loss mounted to two grams a minute, temporarily at the rate of a quarter pound an hour.

This loss would show a sharp decline right after seizure, as if his body had relieved itself of some strong tension. When he slept in the daytime his drop in weight was even slower than in any night period, as if he were then free from some fear that usually pestered him at night.

A possible explanation of the restless nights was found in one of his business habits. For years he had the responsibility of opening a business office early and on time. But he used no alarm clock. Instead, he relied wholly on his "unfailing ability" to awaken on time. This inner tension evidently caused many needless awakenings during the night.

The weighing method in the physiological laboratory furnishes an objective analysis of this obscure human difficulty.—Reuter.

SOVIET CENSUS

IN GREAT FAR-NORTH
IN 1934-35

Khbarovsk.
With the ultimate object of transforming the enormous, unexplored territory of Russia's "Great Far-North" into a modern socialist community, a census will be taken in 1934-35.

It will be one of the most difficult censuses ever made. The population of the Far-North is thought to be about 1,000,000. But they belong to about 25 different nationalities, each having its own language, culture, life habits and social structure.

In spite of extensive work by Soviet explorers, the Far-North is far from being sufficiently explored and studied. In many cases the natural resources, the inhabitants' needs and their occupations still remain unknown. In some parts, however, civilization has made its mark. Nomads have been herding reindeer, settling down; schools and hospitals are new features in these distant areas. Guns of the latest make, factory-made fishing tackle, motor boats and modern farming implements are becoming regular features of local life.

The Soviet's ambition is to transform the whole of this gigantic tract of lands, thus the census will not only be demographic but also economic.—Reuter.

UNWORKABLE POLICY?

ORTHODOX ECONOMISTS AND BANKERS CRITICAL

New York, Oct. 23.
In the opinion of orthodox economists and bankers, President Roosevelt's monetary policy, as broadcasted, may be summed up as utopian and unworkable.

The New York Times states that leading financiers consider the President's plan as an unprecedented thing and one completely at variance with the established monetary precept.

Other economic experts suggest that President Roosevelt is aiming at an elastic dollar, manipulated by the Government by purchases and sales of gold at predetermined prices, to counteract fluctuations in the general price level. In other words, they believe he is planning a "commodity dollar" with a virtually stable purchasing power.

Bankers are most sceptical as to the practicality of controlling the general price level. They favour control of the foreign exchange value of the dollar but are surprised by the selection of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as agents instead of the Treasury or Federal Reserve Bank system.

According to the Washington correspondent of the New York Times, the price of gold must be fixed at about $40 an ounce if President Roosevelt aims at achieving the 1923 price levels.

Some quarters predict that the immediate effect will be an increased gold price abroad and a drop in the dollar in relation to other currencies.—Reuter.

LONDON'S REACTION:

Bankers Interested But Non-Committal.

London, Oct. 23.

London bankers are following President Roosevelt's monetary plan with interest but are adopting a wait and see attitude before commenting. They observe, however, that the success of the experiment stands a fifty-fifty chance and recall Mr. Montagu Norman's recent remark that a new situation is developing in the United States every day, hence no wise man could safely predict the future.—Reuter.

ROOSEVELT PRAISED.

Action May Mean Stabilisation Of Silver.

New York, Oct. 23.

The Secretary of the Montana Silver Association said to-day that President Roosevelt's gold policy should indirectly aid silver and might ultimately stabilise both metals.

Nevada mining men are disappointed that the President ignored silver, but since gold and silver are usually mined together, the rising gold price, they believe will aid silver.

Senator Thomas, praising President Roosevelt's statement, added that silver's turn would come and "by our own action."

Mr. Monterey, ex-President of the American Silver Producers' Association foresees an improvement in silver and even envisages it as the primary money.—Reuter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

A neat strip play is the clue to the solution of the contract problem printed in the last issue. Charles A. Hall, one of Cincinnati's outstanding players, made the hand in a recent tournament. He arrived at the six heart contract, with his partner, as follows:

The Bidding.

Mr. Hall in the South bid one heart. West passed and North went to three hearts. This is a forcing bid demanding that the original bidder bid either four hearts or three no trump if he holds a minimum. Any other bid would be constructive and would be treated as a mild slam try. Mr. Hall responded with four diamonds. This was all that North needed to carry the contract to six hearts.

The Play

West's opening lead was a club which Mr. Hall won with the king and led the ace and king of hearts. West's queen dropped, but the good jack was still out. Mr. Hall then led a small club, won in dummy with the ace, returned the queen and discarded the eight of spades.

As the jack of hearts was located in the East hand, Mr. Hall now started to lead diamonds, not caring when East trumped, and also not fearing the location of the king of spades because if East trumped the third diamond he would be forced to lead a spade, in which case Mr. Hall would not lose a spade trick. While if East refused to trump and discarded two spades, Mr. Hall himself would lead a trump and throw East in the lead.

North plays the following hand at four hearts, doubled by West. East leads the six of spades, which South takes with the ace and returns a small club. East takes this with the ace and returns another club, hoping his partner would run. Now how would you, as North, complete the play to make four hearts?

WITHOUT MUZZLES AND LICENCES

FINES IMPOSED ON DOG OWNERS

A fine of $8 was imposed on L. Jack by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning for allowing his dog to be in Prince Edward Road without a muzzle on October 10.

When a folk of the Peninsula Dock Company appeared on two summonses of allowing his dog out without a muzzle and failing to take out a licence, he pleaded guilty and said he had only brought the dog into the Colony a few days ago.

The Magistrate.—What! Did you comply with the regulations?

Defendant.—I don't know what the regulations are.

The Magistrate.—The regulation against the importation of dogs into the Colony is in force at present. For allowing the dog to be out without a muzzle, I'll fine you $8. On the second charge, I'll fine you $3. As regards the dog, I'll make an order for it to be destroyed.

To Sergeant Downman, who prosecuted, his Worship said, "Will you see to it at once, otherwise they will hide the dog."

W. F. Sanger, of Kowloon Tong, was fined $8 on each of two summonses for allowing his dogs in the street without muzzles.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE SNOWFALL

"A PROFESSIONAL BULLY"

Indian Guard Attacks Compatriot

WITH LOADED STICK

Pleading guilty to a charge of assault on Hira Singh, an elderly Indian Guard, Gurja Singh, described by Chief Detective Inspector Shannon as "a professional bully," was fined $30 with the alternative of three weeks' hard labour by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning.

Defendant was further cautioned and bound over on a charge, to which he also pleaded guilty, of possession of a loaded walking stick, fit for an unlawful purpose.

The complaint was in Court filed in a blood-stained uniform which he was wearing when attacked. He bore a serious head injury.

NEARLY A BLUDGEON.
"I know the defendant to be a professional bully among the Indians, a man who always resorts to force," said the C.D.I. "I recently had occasion to go into a case of a hired professional bully in a money lending case. There is a good deal of unrest among Indians of this class, and most of the trouble is with the money loan association."

Referring to the stick, the Inspector said it came very near to a bludgeon. He certainly could call it a walking stick. It produced a selection of sticks which he had collected at random from the Sikhs' barracks and they were all normal walking sticks. No law-abiding citizen would want to carry a loaded stick except in the country. He had been in charge of the Guards for four

COURT MARTIAL SENTENCES

DETENTION FOR TWELVE WEEKS

Private Wilfred John Evans, of the South Wales Borderers, who was recently court-martialled for striking a superior officer with a dagger and using threatening language, has been sentenced to 84 days' detention. The sentence has been confirmed by Brigadier R.B. Cousins who is acting G.O.C. during the absence of Major General Borrett.

Sentence of 84 days' detention was also passed on Gunner William MacDonald, who was court-martialled for absenting himself without leave and assaulting a Chinese and an Indian Constable. MacDonald was found guilty of the first two charges and not guilty to assaulting the Indian Constable. The Court also ordered that he make good the damage, estimated at $4, done to the Chinese complainant's coat. The sentence has received confirmation.

years and could say that never had he found them carrying a dangerous stick.

A FIGHTING WEAPON.
The type of stick with which the defendant struck the complainant, was recognised in India as a fighting weapon, and was known as a lathi.

The C.D.I. asked for a very serious view to be taken of the case. He was not satisfied with the expressed motive that the defendant wanted the use of his bed when the complainant was on it. He could not prove that the stick was, or was not, the defendant's.
